THE PEACE

INTRODUCTION

THE Peace was exhibited at the great city Dionysia in March 421 B.C., at a time when Athens and Sparta were "alike weary of the long continuance of the Peloponnesian war, and alike disposed to put an end to the conflict upon any fair and honourable terms,"^a the Spartans being especially disheartened by their reverse at Pylos (cf. Thuc. iv. 55), and the Athenians by the military successes of Brasidas in Thrace and their defeat by the Boeotians at Delium in 424.^b The two chief obstacles to peace (cf. Thuc. v. 14-16) had been "Cleon the Athenian demagogue and Brasidas the Spartan general : Brasidas, because of the success and the glory which he was gaining in the war ; Cleon, because in quiet times his malpractices would be more apparent and his calumny less easily believed,"^c but both these obstacles had been removed by the death of Cleon and Brasidas in the battle of Amphipolis, and "hardly had this play been produced upon the stage when the Peace of which it sang dawned upon the Hellenic world," the Peace of Nicias—a peace for fifty years—being concluded in March or April 421.

quick there, quick ! quick,

SECOND SERVANT. Here !

S. I. Give it him, the abominable brute.

S. II. O may he never taste a daintier morsel !

S. I. Now bring another, shaped from asses' dung.

S. II. Here, here again.

S. I. Where's that you brought just now ?
He can't have eaten it.

S. II. No ; he trundled it
With his two feet, and bolted it entire.

S. I. Quick, quick, and beat up several, firm and tight.

S. II. O help me, scavengers,^b by all the Gods !

Or I shall choke and die before your eyes.

S. I. Another cake, a boy-companion's bring him :
He wants one finelier moulded.

THE PEACE, 16-42

- s. II. By Apollo, no, not I !
 I can't endure this muck a moment longer ;^a
 I'll take and pitch the muck-tub in and all.
- s. I. Aye to the crows, and follow it yourself.
- s. II. Can any one of you, I wonder, tell me
 Where I can buy a nose not perforated ?
 There's no more loathly miserable task
 Than to be mashing dung to feed a beetle.
 A pig or dog will take its bit of muck
 Just as it falls : but this conceited brute
 Gives himself airs, and, bless you, he won't touch it,
 Unless I mash it all day long, and serve it
 As for a lady, in a rich round cake.
 Now I'll peep in and see if he has done,
 Holding the door, thus, that he mayn't observe me.
 Aye, tuck away ; go gobbling on, don't stop ;
 I hope you'll burst yourself before you know it.
 Wretch ! how he throws himself upon his food,
 Squared like a wrestler, grappling with his jaws,
 Twisting his head and hands, now here, now there,
 For all the world like men who plait and weave
 Those great thick ropes to tow the barges with.
 'Tis a most stinking, foul, voracious brute.
 Nor can I tell whose appanage^b he is :
 I really think he can't be Aphrodite's,
 Nor yet the Graces'.

s. I. No ? then whose ?

s. II. I take it
 This is the sign of sulphur-bolting Zeus.^c not only " bilge-water," but also the " hold of a ship," and so in 18 it is put for the tub which holds the dung.

^a At the great City Dionysia allies and strangers were admitted.

^b διαβάλλει τὸν Κλέωνα ὡς σκατοφάγον: Schol. In 48 κείνος may be either Cleon or the beetle.

Now I suspect some pert young witling there Is asking, "Well, but what's it all about ?
What can the beetle mean ?" And then I think That some Ionian,^a sitting by, will answer,
"Now, I've nae doubt but this is aimed at Cleon,^b
It eats the muck sae unco shamelessly."
But I will in, and give the beetle drink.

s. 1. And I will tell the story to the boys,
And to the lads, and also to the men,
And to the great and mighty men among you,
And to the greatest mightiest men of all.
My master's mad ; a novel kind of madness,
Not your old style,^c but quite a new invention.
For all day long he gazes at the sky,
His mouth wide open, thus ; and rails at Zeus :
O Zeus, says he, what seekest thou to do ?
Lay down thy besom, sweep not Hellas bare !^d

TRYGAEUS (behind the scenes). Ah me ! Ah me !

SE. Hush ! for methinks I hear him speaking now.

TR. (behind the scenes) O Zeus,

What wouldest thou with our people ? Thou wilt drain
The lifeblood from our cities ere thou knowest !

SE. Aye, there it is ; that's just what I was saying :
Ye hear yourselves a sample of his ravings.
But what he did when first the frenzy seized him
I'll tell you : he kept muttering to himself,
Oh if I could but somehow get to Zeus !
With that he got thin scaling ladders made,
And tried by them to scramble up to heaven,

^a R., with the Scholiast, takes this not of the war-mania but of the μᾶλα δίκαιική which A. had dealt with the year before in the Wasps. But this seems inconsistent with the prayer in 59, which clearly refers to war.

^d " Make it empty of inhabitants because of the wars " : Schol.

^b "The flight of Trygaeus heavenward on his winged beetle is

Till he came tumbling down, and cracked his skull.
 Then yesterday he stole I know not whither,
 And brought a huge Aetnaean ^a beetle home,
 And made me groom it, while he coaxed it down
 Like a young favourite colt, and kept on saying,
Wee Pegasus, my flying thoroughbred,
Your wings must waft me straight away to Zeus ! ^b
 Now I'll peep in and see what he's about.
 Oh, mercy on us ! neighbours ! neighbours ! help !
 My master's got astride upon the beetle
 And up they go ascending in the air.

- TR. Fair and softly, my beastlet,^c at first.
 Start not at once with a violent burst,
 In the proud delight of your eager might,
 Ere your joints with sweat are relaxed and wet
 From the powerful swing of your stalwart wing.
 And breathe not strong as we soar along ;
 If you can't refrain, you had best remain
 Down here in the stalls of your master's halls.
- SE. O master of me ! why how mad you must be !
- TR. Keep silence ! keep silence !
- SE. Why, where do you try so inanely to fly ?
- TR. My flight for the sake of all Hellas I take,
 A novel and daring adventure preparing.
- SE. Why can't you remain at home, and be sane ?

 But greet me with blessings and cheers as I go,
 And order mankind to be silent below ;

^d Peiraeus had " three natural bays " (Thuc. i. 93), and one of these seems to have been called Cantharus from a traditional hero of that name.

Since, if my beetle in the air should smell it,
He'll toss me headlong off, and turn to graze.

Up, up, my Pegasus, merrily, cheerily,
With ears complacent,^b while blithe and bold
Your curbs shake out their clatter of gold.
(I wonder what in the world he means
By pointing his nose at those foul latrines.)
Rise, gallantly rise, from the earth to the skies,
And on with the beat of your pinion fleet
Till you come to Zeus in his heavenly seat.
From all your earthly supplies of dirt,
From ordure and muck your nostril avert.
Man ! man in Peiraeus ! you'll kill me I swear,
Committing a nuisance ! good fellow, forbear ;
Dig it down in the ground, scatter perfumes around,
* Heap, heap up the earth on the top,
Plantsweet-smelling thyme to encircle the mound,
Bring myrrh on its summit to drop ;
For if I through your folly shall tumble to-day,
And my enterprise fail to succeed in,
Five talents the city of Chios ^c shall pay
On account of your breach—of good-breeding.

πράσει, μὴ ὀρθοῖς, with which R. agrees, taking φαιδροῖς as indicating "beaming, sleek good nature." T. wants not spirits but good temper in his steed.

^c There seems, owing to some misconduct of the Chians at Sparta, to have been a popular saying, Χίος ἦν ὁ ἀποπατῶν, "it was a Chian who made the mess." T. therefore assumes that a Chian was guilty in this case.

(The scene suddenly changes)^a

Zounds ! how you scared me : I'm not joking now.
I say, scene-shifter, have a care of me.
You gave me quite a turn ; and if you don't Take care, I'm certain I shall feed my beetle.
But now, methinks, we must be near the Gods ;
And sure enough there stand the halls of Zeus.
Oh, open ! open ! who's in waiting here ?

HERMES. A breath^b of man steals o'er me : whence, whence comes it ?

O Heracles, what's this ?

TR. A beetle-horse.

HE. O shameless miscreant, vagabond, and rogue,^c
O miscreant, utter miscreant, worst of miscreants,
How came you here, you worst of all the miscreants ?
Your name ? what is it ? speak !

TR. The worst of miscreants.

HE. Your race ? your country ? answer !

TR. Worst of miscreants.

HE. And who's your father ?

TR. Mine ? the worst of miscreants.

HE. O-by the Earth but you shall die the death
Unless you tell me who and what you are.

TR. Trygaeus, an Athmonian, skilled in vines^d ;
No sycophant, no lover of disputes.

HE. Why are you come ?

TR. To offer you this meat.

^b Probably φωνή should be supplied in the Greek ; or else ὄσμή.

^c "Hermes is probably intended as a sample of the footmen in the houses of the great at Athens, abusive at first, but soon subsiding into friendliness on the appearance of a bribe. . . . Trygaeus is quite unmoved by his violent language, and even proceeds to chaff him" : R.

^d "Vineyards still surround the little village of Marousi (to the N.E. of Athens) which represents the ancient deme of 'Αθμονή" : R.

HE. How did you get here, Wheedling ^a ?

TR. Oho, Greedling !

Then I'm not quite the worst of miscreants now.

So just step in and summon Zeus.

HE. O ! O !

When you're not likely to come NEAR the Gods !

They're gone : they left these quarters yesterday.

TR. Where on Earth are they ?

HE. Earth, indeed !

TR. But where ?

HE. Far, far away, close to Heaven's highest dome.

TR. How came they then to leave you here alone ?

HE. I have to watch the little things they left,

Pipkins and pannikins and trencherlets.

TR. And what's the reason that they went away ?

HE. They were so vexed with Hellas : therefore here
Where they were dwelling, they've established War,
And given you up entirely to his will.

But they themselves have settled up aloft,

As high as they can go ; that they no more

May see your fightings or receive your prayers.

TR. Why have they treated us like that ? do tell me.

HE. Because, though They were oftentimes for Peace,

You always would have War. If the Laconians

Achieved some slight advantage, they would say,

" Noo by the Twa ^b sall master Attic catch it ; "

Or if the Attics had their turn of luck,

And the Laconians came to treat for peace,

At once ye cried, " We're being taken in,

Athene ! Zeus ! we can't consent to this ;

They're sure to come again if we keep Pylus."

THE PEACE, 220-241

TR. Yes ; that's exactly how we talked : exactly.

HE. So that I know not if ye e'er again
Will see the face of Peace.

TR. Why, where's she gone to ?

HE. War has immured her in a deep deep pit.

TR. Where ?

HE. Here, beneath our feet. And you may see
The heavy stones he piled about its mouth,
That none should take her out.

TR. I wish you'd tell me
How he proposes now to deal with us.

HE. I only know that yester eve he brought Into this house a most gigantic mortar.

TR. What is he going to do with that, I wonder !

HE. He means to put the cities in and pound them.
But I shall go. He's making such a din
I think he's coming out.

TR. Shoo ! let me run
Out of his way : methought that I myself
Heard a great mortar's war-inspiring blast.

WAR.^a O mortals ! mortals ! wondrous-woeful mortals !
How ye will suffer in your jaws directly !

TR. O King Apollo, what a great big mortar !
Oh the mere look of War how bad it is !
Is this the actual War from whom we flee,
The dread tough War, the War upon the legs ?^b cheese, garlic, leek, and honey. " Instead of leek (πράσον), War throws in the homonymous Laconian town of Prasiae ; for garlic he takes Megara, the great garlic-producing country ; Sicily, the Stilton of antiquity, is the natural substitute for cheese ; whilst Attica is represented by her own celebrated honey " : R.

^b The first part of the line recalls the description of Lamachus A. 964 ὁ δεινός, ὁ ταλαύρινος, ὅς τῃν Γοργόνα | πάλλει. The meaning of the last part is obscure.

In the present instance he seems to have thought it safe to make all the verbs end in a like termination, and therefore said χαίρουμαι for χαίρω": R.

TR. Now may I sing the ode that Datis ^a made,

To pull out Peace, the joy of all mankind.
 O all ye farmers, merchants, artisans,
 O all ye craftsmen, aliens, sojourners,
 O all ye islanders, O all ye peoples,
Come with ropes, and spades, and crowbars,
 come in eager hurrying haste,
Now the cup of happy fortune, brothers, it is ours to taste.

CHORUS.^b Come then, heart and soul, my comrades, haste to win this great salvation,
Now or never, now if ever,
 come, the whole Hellenic nation !
Throw away your ranks and squadrons, throw your scarlet plagues away,
Lo, at length the day is dawning,

THE PEACE, 329-348

- TR. Well then, one : make haste about it ;
only one, and then you stop.
- CH. Stop ? of course we stop with pleasure if 'twill your designs assist.
- TR. Well, but look : you're still proceeding.
- CH. Just, by Zeus, one other twist.
Let me fling my right leg upwards,
and I'll really then refrain.
- TR. This indulgence too I'll grant you, so you don't offend again.
- CH. Hah ! but here's my left leg also :
it must have its turn, 'tis plain.
(Dancing vigorously with both legs.)
I'm so happy, glad, delighted, getting rid of arms at last,
More than if, my youth renewing,
I the slough ^a of Age had cast.
- TR. Well, but don't exult at present, for we're all uncertain still,
But, when once we come to hold her,
then be merry if you will ;
Then will be the time for laughing,
Shouting out in jovial glee,
Sailing, sleeping, feasting, quaffing,
All the public sights to see.
Then the Cottabus be playing,
Then be hip-hip-hip-hurrahing,
Pass the day and pass the night
Like a regular Sybarite.
- CH. O that it were yet my fortune those delightful days to see !
Woes enough I've had to bear,
Sorry pallets, trouble, care,

ἄς ἔλαχε Φορμίων.

 On all found digging here ?
 TR. And is it so ?
 And must I die indeed ?
 HE. You must indeed.
 TR. O then, I prithee, lend me half a crown.
 I'll buy a pig, and get initiate first.^b
 HE. Ho ! Zeus ! Zeus ! thunder-crasher !
 TR. O pray don't.
 O by the heavenly powers don't peach upon us.
 HE. No, no, I won't keep silence.
 TR. O pray do.
 O by the heavenly meat I brought you, master.
 HE. Why, bless you, Zeus will quite demolish me
 If I don't shout and tell him all about it.
 TR. O pray don't shout, my darling dearest Hermes.
 Don't stand gaping there, my comrades ;
 are ye quite deprived of speech ?
 What's the matter ? speak, ye rascals !
 if you don't, he's safe to peach.
 CH. Do not, do not, mighty Hermes, do not, do not shout, I pray,
 If you e'er have tasted swine,
 Tasted sucking-pigs of mine,
 Which have soothed your throat divine,
 Think upon it, think upon it,
 nor despise the deed to-day.
 TR. King and master, won't you listen to the coaxing words they say ?

Have long been plotting to your hurt : and now
They're giving Hellas up to the Barbarians.

^a The reference is to the eclipses which signalized the Peloponnesian War (Thuc. i. 23). ὑφ' ἄρματωλίας seems = "by their driving," the word also suggesting that there was a good deal of error (ἁμαρτωλία which many read) in their driving.

- HE. Then that's the reason why they clipped the days,
And nibbled off their rounds, misguiding sinners.^a
- TR. It is, it is : come, Hermes, lend a hand,
Help us to pull her out. And then for you
We'll celebrate the great Panathenaea,
And all the other rites of all the Gods,
Demeter, Zeus, Adonis, all for you ;
And everywhere the cities saved from woe
Will sacrifice to you, the Saviour ^b Hermes.
Much, much besides you'll gain : and first of all
I give you this (producing a gold cup), a vessel for libations.
- HE. Fie ! how I soften at the sight of gold !
There, my men, the work's before you !
I've got nothing more to say.
Quick, take up your spades, and enter, shovelling all the stones away.
- CH. Gladly, gladly will we do it, wisest of the Gods ; and you,
Like a skilled superior craftsman,
teach us what we ought to do.
I warrant, when the way we know, you'll find us anything but slow.
- TR. Hold out the vessel, and we'll launch the work
With free libations and with holy prayers.
- HE. Pour libations.
Silence ! silence ! pour libations.
- TR. And as we pour we'll pray. O happy morn,
Be thou the source of every joy to Hellas !
And O may he who labours well to-day
Be never forced to bear a shield again !
- CH. No ; may he spend his happy days in peace,
Stirring the fire, his mistress at his side.

^b Ἀλεξίκακος is usually the epithet of Apollo.

THE PEACE, 467-493

HE. Yo ho ! pull away.

TR. Pull away, away, away.

CH. (to Trygaeus and Hermes)

Verily you should be helping us too.

TR. (indignantly) Don't I strain, might and main,
Cling and swing tug and haul ?

CH. Yet we don't advance at all.

TR. Now don't sit there and thwart us, Lamachus.

We don't require your Bugaboo,^a my man.

HE. These Argives,^b too, they give no help at all.

They only laugh at us, our toils and troubles,
And all the while take pay from either side.

TR. But the Laconians, comrade, pull like men.

HE. Ah, mark, 'tis only such as work in wood^c

That fain would help us : but the smith impedes.

TR. And the Megarians do no good : they pull, though,

Scrabbling away like ravenous puppy dogs.

Good lack ! they're regularly starved and ruined.

CH. We make no way, my comrades : we must try

A strong pull, and a long pull, all together.

HE. Yo ho ! pull away.

TR. Keep it up a little longer.

HE. Yo ho ! pull away.

TR. Yes, by Zeus ! a little stronger.

CH. Very slow, now we go.

TR. What a shameful dirty trick !

Some are working, others shirking,

Argives, ye shall feel the stick.

^c Lit. "keep fast to the ξίλον," which is "the term constantly used by Aristophanes to denote the instrument employed for confining prisoners" (R.), and the reference is to the Spartan captives from Pylos who were still in prison. ὁ χαλκείος seems to point to their fetters.

^a θεωρία literally describes being a spectator at games or festivals, usually as a member of a public embassy.

TR. Giver of grapes, O how shall I address you ?
 O for a word ten thousand buckets big
 Wherewith to accost you : for I've none at hand.
 Good morning, Harvesthome : good morn, Mayfair.^a
 O what a lovely charming face, Mayfair !

(Kisses her)

O what a breath ! how fragrant to my heart,
 How sweet, how soft, with perfume and inaction.

HE. Not quite the odour of a knapsack, eh ?

TR. Faugh ! that odious pouch of odious men, I hate it.^b
 It has a smell of rancid-onion-whiffs ;
 But she of harvests, banquets, festivals,
 Flutes, thrushes, plays, the odes of Sophocles,
 Euripidean wordlets,

HE. O how dare you
 Slander her so : I'm sure she does not like
 That logic-monger's wordy disputations.

TR. (continuing) The bleating lambs, the ivy-leaf, the vat,
 Full-bosomed matrons hurrying to the farm,
 The tipsy maid, the drained and emptied flask,
 And many another blessing.

HE. And look there,
 See how the reconciled cities greet and blend
 In peaceful intercourse, and laugh for joy ;
 And that, too, though their eyes are swollen and blackened,
 And all cling fast to cupping instruments.^c

TR. Yes, and survey the audience : by their looks
 You can discern their trades.

HE. O dear ! O dear !
 Don't you observe the man that makes the crests

^b A parody of a line of Euripides, preserved by the Scholiast, ἀπέπτυσ' ἐχθροῦ φωτὸς ἐχθιστον τέκος.

^c i.e. to reduce the swelling.

THE PEACE, 546-565

Tearing his hair ? and yon's a pitchfork-seller ;
Fie ! how he fillips the sword-cutler there.

TR. And see how pleased that sickle-maker looks,
Joking and poking the spear-burnisher.

HE. Now then give notice : let the farmers go.

TR. O yes ! O yes ! the farmers all may go Back to their homes, farm-implements and all.
You can leave your darts behind you :
yea, for sword and spear shall cease.

All things all around are teeming with the mellow gifts of Peace ;
Shout your Paeans, march away to labour in your fields to-day.

CH. Day most welcome to the farmers and to all the just and true,
Now I see you I am eager once again my vines to view,
And the fig-trees which I planted in my boyhood's early prime,
I would fain salute and visit after such a weary time.

TR. First, then, comrades, to the Goddess be our grateful prayers addressed,
Who has freed us from the Gorgons and the fear-inspiring crest.
Next a little salt provision ^a fit for country uses buy,
Then with merry expedition homeward to the fields we'll hie.

HE. O Poseidon ! fair their order, sweet their serried ranks to see :
Right and tight, like rounded biscuits,
or a thronged festivity.^b

Comrades, which to Peace we owe,
All the life of ease and comfort
Which she gave us long ago :
Figs and olives, wine and myrtles,
Luscious fruits preserved and dried,
Banks of fragrant violets, blowing
By the crystal fountain's side ;
Scenes for which our hearts are yearning,
Joys that we have missed so long,— —Comrades, here is Peace returning,
Greet her back with dance and song !

CH. Welcome, welcome, best and dearest, welcome, welcome, welcome home.
We have looked and longed for thee,
Looking, longing, wondrously,
Once again our farms to see.

O the joy, the bliss, the rapture, really to behold thee come.

thou wast aye our greatest gain.

^a Pheidias had been bitterly attacked as the friend of Pericles, and in the end, on the ground that in the battle-scene on the shield of his statue of Athene he had introduced likenesses of himself and Pericles, was thrown into prison and died. In consequence of this and similar attacks on Aspasia and his teacher Anaxagoras, Pericles according to Plutarch (Per. c. 30-31, 32) "fearing the dicasteries," stirred up the Peloponnesian War. ^b i.e. as conductor of the dead to the world below.

^c "This word involves a twofold allusion: first, to the tanning trade of Cleon; and secondly, to the shields, scuta, which were made of hides": R.

Stopped with gold the mouths of speakers who were such disastrous foes.
Thus the scoundrels thrived and prospered :
 whilst distracted Hellas came Unobserved to wrack and ruin :
 but the fellow most to blame
Was a tanner.^a

TR. Softly, softly, Hermes master, say not so ;
Let the man remain in silence,
 wheresoe'er he is, below ;
For the man is ours no longer :
 he is all your own,^b you know ;
Therefore whatsoe'er you call him,
Knave and slave while yet amongst us,
Wrangler, jangler, false accuser,
Troubler, muddler, all-confuser,
You will all these names be calling
One who now is yours alone.

(To Peace)

But tell me, lady, why you stand so mute.

HE. Oh, she won't speak one word before this audience :
No, no ; they've wronged her far too much for that.

TR. Then won't she whisper, all alone, to you?

HE. Will you, my dearest, speak your thoughts to me?
Come, of all ladies most shield-handle-hating.

(Affects to listen.)

Yes, good ; that's their offence : I understand.

Listen, spectators, why she blames you so.

She says that after that affair in Pylus

She came, unbidden, with a chest of treaties,
And thrice you blackballed her in full assembly.

TR. We erred in that ; but, lady, pardon us,
For then our wits were swaddled up in skins.^c

Who in your city loves her least ? and who Loves her the best and shrinks from fighting most ?
- TR. Cleonymus, I think, by far the most.
- HE. What sort of man is this Cleonymus
In military matters ?
- TR. Excellent :
Only he's not his so-called father's son ;
For if he goes to battle, in a trice
He proves himself a castaway—of shields.^a
- HE. Still further listen what she asks me now.
Who is it now that sways the Assembly-stone^b ?
- TR. Hyperbolus^c at present holds the place.
But how now, Mistress ? Why avert your eyes ?
- HE. She turns away in anger from the people,
For taking to itself so vile a leader.
- TR. He's a mere makeshift : we'll not use him now.
'Twas that the people, bare and stripped of leaders,
Just caught him up to gird itself withal.
- HE. She asks how this can benefit the state.
- TR. 'Twill make our counsels brighter.
- HE. Will it ? how ?
- TR. Because he deals in lamps : before he came
We all were groping in the dark, but now
His lamps may give our council-board some light.
- HE. Oh ! oh !
What things she wants to know !
- TR. What sort of things ?
- HE. All the old things existing when she left.
And first, she asks if Sophocles be well.

^b The famous Bema, a rock in the centre of the Pnyx, from which the orators spoke.

 He'd put to sea upon a sieve for money.^b
 HE. Lives the old wit Cratinus ^c ?
 TR. No ; he perished

 TR. Swooned dead away : he could not bear to see
 A jolly butt of wine all smashed and wasted.
 Much, much beside we've suffered ; wherefore, lady,
 We'll never never let you go again.
 HE. Then on these terms I'll give you Harvesthome
 To be your bride and partner in your fields.
 Take her to wife, and propagate young vines.

Were to fill with the praise of himself and his plays
our own anapaestic ^a address.
But if ever, O daughter of Zeus, it were fit with honour and praise to adorn ^b
A Chorus-Instructor, the ablest of men,
the noblest that ever was born,
Our Poet is free to acknowledge that he is deserving of high commendation :
It was he that advancing, unaided, alone, compelled the immediate cessation
Of the jokes which his rivals were cutting at rags,
and the battles they waged with the lice.
It was he that indignantly swept from the stage
the paltry ignoble device
Of a Heracles needy and seedy and greedy, a vagabond sturdy and stout,
Now baking his bread, now swindling instead,
now beaten and battered about.
And freedom he gave to the lachrymose slave who was wont with a howl to rush in,
And all for the sake of a joke which they make on the wounds that disfigure his skin :
" Why, how now, my poor knave ? " so they bawl to the slave,
" has the whipcord invaded your back,
Spreading havoc around, hacking trees to the ground,
with a savage resistless attack ? "
Such vulgar contemptible lumber at once he bade from the drama depart,
And then, like an edifice stately and grand,
he raised and ennobled the Art.
High thoughts and high language he brought on the stage,
a humour exalted and rare,

THE PEACE, 751-769

Nor stooped with a scurrilous jest to assail
some small-man-and-woman affair.
No, he at the mightiest quarry of all with the soul of a Heracles flew,
And he braved the vile scent of the tan-pit, and went through foul-mouthed revilings for you.
And I at the outset came down in the lists with the jagged-fanged ^a monster to fight, Whose eyeballs were lurid and glaring with flames of Cynna's ^b detestable light ;
And around his forehead the thin forked tongues of a hundred sycophants quiver,
And his smell was the smell of a seal, and his voice was a brawling tempestuous River,
And his hinder parts like a furnace appeared,
and a goblin's uncleansable liver.
But I recked not the least for the look of the beast ;
I never desponded or quailed,
And I fought for the safety of you and the Isles ^c ;
I gallantly fought and prevailed.
You therefore should heed and remember the deed,
and afford me my guerdon to-day,
For I never went off to make love to the boys in the schools of athletic display
Heretofore when I gained the theatrical prize :
but I packed up my traps and departed,
Having caused you great joy and but little annoy,
and mightily pleased the true-hearted.

It is right then for all, young and old, great and small,
Henceforth of my side and my party to be,
And each bald-headed man should do all that he can
That the prize be awarded to me.
For be sure if this play be triumphant to-day,

SE. With pipkins ! like a wretched little Hermes ! ^b

TR. Well then, what think you of a stall-fed bull ?

TR. Well then, a great fat pig ?

SE. No, no.

TR. Why not ?

SE. Lest, like Theagenes, ^c we grow quite piggish.

TR. What other victim shall we have ?

SE. A baalamb.

TR. A baalamb !

SE. Yes, by Zeus !

TR. But that's Ionic, ^d

That word is.

SE. All the better : then, you see,

If any speak for war, the whole assembly

Will talk Ionic and cry out Bah ! Bah !

TR. Good, very good.

SE. And they'll be milder so,

And we shall live like lambs among ourselves,

And be much gentler towards our dear allies.

TR. There, get the sheep as quickly as you can,

I'll find an altar for the sacrifice.

War, with its vehement storm,
Seems for the instant to cease ;
Its soughings decrease,
Shifting and veering to Peace.

THE PEACE, 990-1015

These thirteen long years ^a have been pining for you.
When our fightings are stayed, and our tumults allayed,

We will hail thee a Lady for ever :
And O put an end to the whispers of doubt,
These wonderful clever

Ingenuous suspicions we bandy about ;
And solder and glue the Hellenes anew
With the old-fashioned true
Elixir of love, and attemper our mind
With thoughts of each other more genial and kind.

Moreover we pray that our market-place may
Be furnished each day with a goodly display,
And for garlic, and cucumbers early and rare,
Pomegranates, and apples in heaps to be there,
And wee little coats for our servants to wear.
And Boeotia to send us her pigeons and widgeons,
And her geese and her plovers : and plentiful creels
Once more from Copais to journey with eels,
And for us to be hustling, and tussling, and bustling,
With Morychus,^b Teleas, Glaucetes, all
The gluttons together besieging the stall,
To purchase the fish : and then I could wish
For Melanthius to come too late for the fair,
And for them to be sold, and for him to despair,
And out of his own Medea a groan

Of anguish to borrow,
“ *I perish ! I perish ! bereaved of my sweet,
My treasure, my darling, embowered in her beet^c ;* ”
And for all men to laugh at his sorrow.

^b In the impassioned address to a Copaic eel A. 885 it is spoken of as φίλη Μωριχῶ who was an epicure (cf. W. 506).

^c For garnishing eels with beet cf. A. 894, where an eel thus bedecked is similarly spoken of as a beautiful maiden. The lines here are said to be a parody of lines from the Medea of Melanthius.

THE PEACE, 1092-1109

*Duly the thighs they burned,
 and ate the tripe and the innards,
Then poured out the libations ;
 and I was the guide and the leuder;
None to the soothsayer gave the shining beautiful goblet.*

HI. Nothing I know of these :
these did not come from the Sibyl.

TR. Nay, but wisely and well spake Homer the excellent poet :
Tribeless, lawless, and hearthless is he that delighteth in bloodshed, Bloodshed of kith and kin, heart-sickening, horrible, hateful !

III. Take thou heed, or a kite,
by a trick thy attention beguiling,
Down with a swoop may pounce.

TR. (to the servant) Ah ! take heed really and truly.
That's an alarming hint :
it bodes no good to the inwards.

Pour the libation in,
and hand me a piece of the inwards.

HI. Nay, but if such is the plan,
I too for myself will be caterer.

TR. Pour libation ! pour libation !

HI. Pour it in also for me, and reach me a share of the inwards.

TR. That is far from the mind of the Ever-blessed Immortals.

Yea, for before that hour—

—you go, we'll pour the libation.

Holy and reverend Peace, abide with thy servants for ever.

III. Now, fetch hither the tongue.

THE PEACE, 1128-1149

What a great delight to me,
From the cheese and from the onions
And the helmet to be free.
For I can't enjoy a battle,
But I love to pass my days
With my wine and boon companions
Round the merry, merry blaze,
When the logs are dry and seasoned,
And the fire is burning bright,
And I roast the pease and chestnuts
In the embers all alight,
—Flirting too with Thratta
When my wife is out of sight.

Ah, there's nothing half so sweet as when the seed is in the ground,
God a gracious rain is sending,
and a neighbour saunters round.
“ O Comarchides ^a ! ” he bails me :
“ how shall we enjoy the hours ? ”
“ Drinking seems to suit my fancy, what with these benignant showers.
Therefore let three quarts, my mistress,
of your kidney-beans be fried,
Mix them nicely up with barley, and your choicest figs provide ;
Syra run and shout to Manes,
call him in without delay,
'Tis no time to stand and dawdle pruning out the vines to-day,
Nor to break the clods about them,
now the ground is soaking through.
Bring me out from home the fieldfare, bring me out the siskins two,

 Swelling out its purple skin,
 When the merry little warblings
 Of the Chirrupe^a begin ;
 For the Lemnian^b ripens early.

'Tis, he says, true Sardinian tincture,^a which they warrant not to run ;
 But if e'er it gets to fighting, though his scarlet coat be on,
 He himself becomes as pallid as the palest Cyzicene,^b Running like a tawny cockhorse,^c
 he's the first to quit the scene ;
 Shake and quake his crests above him :
 I stood gaping while he flew.
 Ah, but when at home they're stationed,
 things that can't be borne they do,
 Making up the lists unfairly, striking out and putting down
 Names at random.^d 'Tis to-morrow that the soldiers leave the town ;
 One poor wretch has bought no victuals,
 for he knew not he must go Till he on Pandion's ^e statue spied the list and found 'twas so,
 Reading there his name inserted ;
 off he scuds with aspect wry.
 This is how they treat the farmers,
 but the burghers certainly Somewhat better : godless wretches, rogues with neither shame nor—shield,
 Who one day, if God be willing,
 strict accounts to me shall yield.
 For they've wronged me much and sorely :
 Very lions in the city,
 Very foxes in the fight.

And the hot rolls, and quantities of hare.

SICKLE-MAKER. Where, where's Trygaeus?

TR. Stewing thrushes here.

s.-m. O, my best friend, Trygaeus ! O what blessings
Your gift of Peace has brought us. Till to-day
No man would give one farthing for a sickle ;
And now ! I'm selling them two pounds apiece.
And my friend here sells casks for country use Half a crown each. Trygaeus, freely take
As many casks and sickles as you please.
And take this too (giving money) ; out of our sales and gains

We bring you these, we two, as wedding presents.

TR. Well, lay your presents down, and hie you in
To join the marriage feast : here comes a man
Who trades in arms : he seems put out at something.

CREST-MAKER. O you've destroyed me root and branch, Trygaeus.

TR. How now, poor wretch! what ails you? got a crestache? ^a c.-m. You have destroyed my living and my trade,

And this man's too, and yon spear-burnisher's.

TR. What shall I give you, then, for these two crests?

c.-m. What will you give?

TR. Faith, I'm ashamed to say:

Come, there's a deal of work about this juncture^b; I'll give three quarts of raisins for the pair.

'Twill do to wipe my table down withal.

c.-m. Go in, then, go, and fetch the raisins out.

TR. No, no.

I'm going to buy his spears : I really am.

SPEAR-BURNISHER. What are you going to give ?

TR. Saw them in two,

I'll buy them all for vine-poles, ten a penny.

S.-B. The man insults us : come away, my friend.

TR. Aye, go your way, for here come out the boys,
Those whom the guests have brought us ; I suppose
They're going to practise what they're going to sing.
Come and stand here by me, my boy, and then
Let's hear you practise what you mean to sing.

^b This line occurs eleven times in the Iliad. The other lines made up from Homer or in Homeric language.

^c "The boy uses θωρήσσουντο in the sense of 'they donned their reastplates,' but Trygaeus understands it in the signification which it not unfrequently bears of 'they fortified themselves with draughts of wine'; cf. A. 1132-5": R.

THE PEACE, 1270-1287

FIRST BOY. "Sing of the younger blood, whose deeds" ^a—

TR. Plague take you, be quiet

Singing of deeds of blood :

and that, you unfortunate ill-starred

Wretch, in the time of Peace ;

you're a shameful and ignorant blockhead.

BOY. "Slowly the hosts approached, till at length with a shock of encounter ^b

Shield was dashed upon shield, and round-bossed buckler on buckler."

TR. Buckler ? you'd better be still :

how dare you be talking of bucklers ?

BOY. "Rose the rattle of war commingled with groans of the dying."

TR. Groans of the dying ?

by great Dionysus, I'll make you repent it,

Singing of groans of the dying, especially such as are round-bossed.

BOY. What, then, what shall I sing ?

you, tell me the songs you delight in.

TR. "Then on the flesh of beeves they feasted ;" something of that sort.

"Then a repast they served, and whatever is best for a banquet."

BOY. "Then on the flesh of beeves

they feasted, aweary of fighting ;

Then from the yoke they loosed

the reeking necks of the horses."

TR. Good : they were tired of war, and so they feasted :

Sing on, O sing, how they were tired and feasted.

BOY. "Quickly, refreshed, they called for the casques."^c

TR. Casks ? gladly, I warrant.

BOY. "Out from the towers they poured,

and the roar of battle ascended."

THE PEACE, 1288-1310

- TR. Perdition seize you, boy, your wars and all !
You sing of nought but battles : who's your father ?
- BOY. Whose ? mine ?
- TR. Yes, yours, by Zeus !
- BOY. Why, Lamachus.
- TR. Ugh, out upon it !
Truly I marvelled, and thought to myself as I heard your performance,
This is the son of some hacker,
and thwacker, and sacker of cities.
Get to the spearmen, sing to them : begone.
Here, here, I want Cleonymus's son.
You, sing before we enter : sure I am
You won't sing wars : you've too discreet a father.
- SECOND BOY. " Ah ! some Saeon is vaunting the targe, which I in the bushes
Sadly, a blameless shield, left as I fled from the field." ^a
- TR. Tell me, you pretty baboon, are you making a mock of your father ?
- BOY. " Nay, but my LIFE I preserved,"
- TR. But you shamed the parents who gave it.
Well go we in, for sure I am that you,
Being your father's son, will nevermore
Forget the song you sang about the shield.
Now then 'tis right, my jolly rogues,
that you should, here remaining,
Munch, crunch, and bite with all your might,
no empty vessels draining ;
With manly zeal attack the meal,
And saw and gnaw with either jaw, there's no advantage really
In having white and polished teeth unless you use them freely.

And that every field may its harvest yield,
And our garners shine with the corn and wine,
While our figs in plenty and peace we eat,

And we gather back in abundant store
The many blessings we lost before ;
And the fiery steel—be it known no more.

Happy, happy, happy you,
And you well deserve it too.
Hymen, Hymenaeus O !
Hymen, Hymenaeus O !

What shall with the bride be done,
What be done with Harvesthome ?
She shall yield him, one by one,
All the joys of Harvest-home.

Ye to whom the task belongs
Raise the happy bridegroom, raise,
Bear him on with goodly songs,
Bear him on with nuptial lays.
Hymen, Hymenaeus O !
Hymen, Hymenaeus O !
Go and dwell in peace :
Not a care your lives impair,
Watch your figs increase.
Hymen, Hymenaeus O !
Hymen, Hymenaeus O !

He is stout and big.
She a sweeter fig.

So you all will think
When you feast and drink.
Hymen, Hymenaeus O !
Hymen, Hymenaeus O !
Away, away, good day, good day ;
Follow me, sirs, if ye will,
And of bridecakes eat your fill.

THE BIRDS

INTRODUCTION

THE Birds was exhibited at the Great Dionysia in the archonship of Chabrias, 414 B.C. It was placed second, the prize being awarded to the Revellers (Κωμοσται) of Ameipsias, and Phrynichus coming third with the Solitary (Μονότροπος).

At this date, "Athens was at the height of her power and prosperity. Six or seven years of comparative peace had recruited her numbers, and replenished her treasury. She had just launched against Sicily the most formidable armament that ever issued from an Hellenic harbour. No shadow of the coming catastrophe dimmed the brightness of the outlook."^a The Peace of Nicias, in 421 B.C., had given her all she had fought for, and before her eyes loomed visions of conquest and empire in Sicily, Carthage, and Libya, when the fleet set sail in B.C. 415. Aristophanes "gives a comic representation of the high schemes and ambitions which were in the air; not as encouraging them, for his caricature is fantastic and ludicrous in the extreme; yet not as discouraging them, since even his fantastic adventure is crowned with a brilliant success. In this sense, and no further, may the Birds be considered as allegorical."^b Yet attempts have been made to fasten the satire to some definite event ; the best known being that of Professor Süvern. Others have tried to identify Peisthetaerus with Alcibiades. All these attempts fail when details are examined, and they spoil the spirit of the comedy.

For the names of birds mentioned, the reader may be referred to Professor D'Arcy Thompson's Glossary of Greek Birds (1895) ; but Mr. Rogers's Introduction describes their looks and habits fully with reference to the allusions in the play.

^a A desolate scene, with a tree and a rock. Enter Peisthetaerus, carrying a crow, and Euelpides, carrying a jackdaw.

^b Lit. "threading our way to and fro." The metaphor is from passing the weft to and fro across the warp: Schol.

^c A Carian slave, who managed to get Athenian citizenship.

^d Philocrates "of the bird-market" (οὐκ τῶν ὀρνέων) sold wild birds exposed on earthenware trays.

THE BIRDS

EUELPIDES.^a Straight on do you bid me go, where the tree stands ?

PEISTHETAERUS. O hang it all ! mine's croaking back again.

EU. Why are we wandering up and down, you rogue ?

This endless spin ^b will make an end of us.

PEI. To think that I, poor fool, at a crow's bidding,
Should trudge about, an hundred miles and more !

EU. To think that I, poor wretch, at a daw's bidding,
Should wear the very nails from off my feet !

PEI. Why, where we are, I've not the least idea.

EU. Could you from hence find out your fatherland ?

PEI. No, that would pose even—Excecestides ^c !

EU. O, here's a nuisance !

PEI. Go you there, then, friend.

EU. I call Philocrates ^d a regular cheat,
The fool that sells the bird-trays in the market.
He swore these two would lead us straight to Tereus,
The hoopoe, made a bird in that same market.^e

^e The hoopoe is really an actor, who has obtained his plumage in the bird-market, where these birds were also bought ; they might therefore be expected to find him. Pandion of Athens had two daughters, Procne and Philomela ; Tereus of Thrace married the one and outraged the other ; the sisters killed his son Itys, and served him up for his father's dinner ; he pursued them, and they were changed, Tereus into a hoopoe, Procne into a night-ingale, and Philomela into a swallow (Apollodorus, iii. 14).

THE BIRDS, 17-44

So then this daw, this son of Tharreleides,^a
 We bought for an obol, and that crow for three.
 But what knew they? Nothing, but how to—bite!
 Where are you gaping now? Do you want to lead us Against the rocks? There's no road here, I tell you.

PEI. No, nor yet here; not even the tiniest path.

EU. Well, but what says your crow about the road?

PEI. By Zeus, she croaks quite differently now.

EU. (shouting) WHAT DOES SHE SAY ABOUT THE ROAD?

PEI. She says

She'll gnaw my fingers off: that's all she says.

EU. Now isn't it a shame that when we are here

Ready and willing as two men can be

To go to the ravens,^b we can't find the way.

For we are sick, spectators, with a sickness

Just the reverse of that which Sacas^c has.

He, no true townsman, would perforce press in;

Whilst we, with rights of tribe and race unchallenged,

Townsmen mid townsmen, no man scaring us,

Spread both our—feet, and flew away from home.

Not that we hate our city, as not being

A prosperous mighty city, free for all

To spend their wealth in, paying fines and fees.

Aye, the cicadas chirp upon the boughs

One month, or two; but our Athenians chirp

Over their lawsuits all their whole life long.

That's why we are journeying on this journey now,

Trudging along with basket, pot, and myrtles,^d

To find some quiet easy-going spot,

^b A proverb, for "going to the dogs."

^c Acestor, a tragic poet, mentioned also W. 1221, was a naturalized foreigner: Sacas means Scythian.

^d Requisites for sacrifice at founding of the new city (Schol.). P. 948. The basket may contain the sacrificial knife, the barley grains and the myrtle wreath; the pot may contain the fire.

THE BIRDS, 45-65

Where we may settle down, and dwell in peace.

Tereus, the hoopoe, is our journey's aim,
To learn if he, in any place he has flown to,
Has seen the sort of city that we want.

PEI. You there !

EU. What now ?

PEI. My crow keeps croaking upwards
Ever so long.

EU. And here's my jackdaw gaping
Up in the air, as if to show me something.
There must be birds about, I am sure of that.
Let's make a noise and we shall soon find out.

PEI. Then harkye ; bang your leg against the rock.^a

EU. And you, your head ; and there'll be twice the noise.

PEI. Well, take a stone and knock.

EU. Yes, I'll do that.

Boy ! Boy !

PEI. Eh ! What ! do you call the hoopoe " Boy " ?
You should call " Whoop-ho there," not " Boy " of course.

EU. O, Whoop-ho there ! What, must I knock again ?
Whoop-ho !

PLOVER-PAGE.^b Whoever are these ? Who calls my master ?

EU. Apollo shield us, what a terrible gape !

P.-P. These be two bird-catchers. O dear, O dear !

EU. (aside) As nasty-speaking, as unpleasant-looking !

P.-P. Ye shall both die !

EU. O, we're not men.

P.-P. What then ?

EU. Well, I'm the Panic-struck, a Libyan bird.

^b A door opens in the rock, and an actor emerges, with a head-dress representing the head of a Dunlin or Plover-page with a long and wide gaping beak. P. and E. stumble back, and P. falls ; their birds escape.

P.-P. Nonsense !

EU. No nonsense : look for yourself and see.^a

P.-P. And he—what bird is he ? come, won't you answer ?

PEI. I ? I'm a pheasant, and a yellow-tailed one.

EU. But O by all the Gods, whatever are you ?

P.-P. A serving-bird.

EU. What, vanquished by some gamecock

In fight ?^b

P.-P. No, but my master, when he first Became a hoopoe, prayed that I might turn Into a bird, to be his servant still.

EU. What, does a bird require a serving-bird ?

P.-P. He does, as having been a man, I fancy.
So when he wants to taste Phaleric sardines,
I run for the sardines, catching up a dish.
Does he want soup ? then where's the pot and ladle ?
I run for the ladle.

EU. A regular running-page.
Now harkye, Plover-page, run in and call
Your master out.

P.-P. Great Zeus ! he has just been eating
Myrtles and midges, and is gone to roost.

EU. But still, do wake him.

P.-P. Well, I know he won't
Like to be waked, still for your sake I'll do it.^c

PEI. Confound the bird ! he frightened me to death.

EU. O dear ! O dear ! my heart went pit-a-pat,
My daw's gone too.

PEI. (severely) Gone ! O you coward you,
You LET him go !

^a "Dicit hoc, quasi prae timore cacaverit," according to the Schol.

^c Exit the Plover-page.

- EU. Well, didn't you fall down,
And let your crow go ?
- PEI. No, I didn't. No !
- EU. Where is she then ?
- PEI. She flew away herself.
- EU. You didn't let her go. You're a brave boy !^a

- EU. O Heracles, why what in the world is this ?
What feathering's here ? What style of triple-crested ?

- EU. The Twelve Gods
Would seem to have wrought your ruin.
- HOO. What, do you jeer me,
Seeing the way I'm feathered ? Strangers, I
Was once a man.

- HOO. I am a bird.
- EU. Then, where are all your feathers ?
- HOO. They've fallen off !
- EU. What ! from disease, or why ?
- HOO. No, but in winter-time all birds are wont
To moult their feathers, and then fresh ones grow.
But tell me what ye are.
- EU. We ? mortal men.
- HOO. And of what race ?

^a Enter Hoopoe upon the ἐκκύλημα, which bears a small coppice in which his wife the Nightingale lies asleep. The Hoopoe has no feathers except on head and wings.

EU. Whence the brave galleys come.

HOO. Not dicasts, are ye ?

EU. No, the other sort.^a

We're anti-dicasts.

HOO. Grows that seedling there ?

EU. Aye in the country you can find a few,
If you search closely.^b

HOO. But what brings you hither ?

EU. To talk with you a little.

HOO. What about ?

EU. You were a man at first, as we are now,
And had your creditors, as we have now,
And loved to shirk your debts, as we do now ;
And then you changed your nature, and became
A bird, and flew round land and sea, and know
All that men feel, and all that birds feel too.
That's why we are come as suppliants here, to ask
If you can tell us of some city, soft
As a thick rug, to lay us down within.

HOO. Seek ye a mightier than the Cranaan town^c ?

EU. A mightier, no ; a more commodious, yes.

HOO. Aristocratic ?

EU. Anything but that !

I loathe the very name of Scellias' son.^d

HOO. What sort of city would ye like ?

EU. Why, one

Where my worst trouble would be such as this ;
A friend at daybreak coming to my door
And calling out O by Olympian Zeus,
Take your bath early : then come round to me,

i.e. Athens, the most ancient name of which was κρاناαί, "the rugged."

I'm going to give. Now pray don't disappoint me, Else, keep your distance, when my money's—gone.*

And you?

Come up and chide me with complaints like these,
*Fine things I hear of you, Stilbonides,
You met my son returning from the baths,
And never kissed, or hugged, or fondled him,
You, his paternal friend! You're a nice fellow.*

1100. Poor Poppet, you are in love with ills indeed.
Well, there's the sort of city that ye want
By the Red Sea.^a

EU. Not by the sea! Not where
The Salaminian,^b with a process-server
On board, may heave in sight some early morn.
But can't you mention some Hellenic town?

But for Melanthius'^d sake I loathe the name.

No thank you, no, not for a talent of gold.

^c Lepreus, or Lepreum, had been tributary to Elis; but after a dispute, was awarded by the Spartan arbitrators to their own enfranchized Helots. The Eleans, indignant, in 420 B.C. formed an alliance with Athens, Argos, Elis, and Mantinea (Thuc. v. 31, 34, 47).

THE BIRDS, 155-177

But this, this bird-life here, you know it well,
What is this like ?

HOO. A pleasant life enough.

Foremost and first you don't require a purse.

EU. There goes a grand corrupter of our life !

HOO. Then in the gardens we enjoy the myrtles,
The cress, the poppy, the white sesame.^a

EU. Why, then, ye live a bridegroom's jolly life.

PEI. Oh ! Oh !

O the grand scheme I see in the birds' reach,
And power to grasp it, if ye'd trust to me !

HOO. Trust you in what ?

PEI. What ? First don't fly about

In all directions, with your mouths wide open.
That makes you quite despised. With us, for instance,
If you should ask the flighty people there,
Who is that fellow ? Teleas^b would reply.
The man's a bird, a flighty feckless bird,
Inconsequential, always on the move.

HOO. Well blamed, i'faith ; but what we ought to do,
Tell us.

PEI. Live all together : found one State.

HOO. What sort of State are birds to found, I wonder.

PEI. Aye, say you so ? You who have made the most Idiotic speech, look down.

HOO. I do.

PEI. Look up.

HOO. I do.

PEI. Twirl round your head.

HOO. Zeus ! I shall be

A marvellous gainer, if I twist my neck !

^a Sesame-cake was used at weddings. Myrtle and sisymbria were sacred to Aphrodite.

^a The Greeks had acquired from the Babylonians the conception of the heavens as "a pole" or hollow sphere revolving round and enclosing the earth. This "pole" is the dwelling of the birds, and, according to Peisthetaerus, is so called because it

THE BIRDS, 178-200

PEI. What did you see ?

HOO. I saw the clouds and sky.

PEI. And is not that the Station ^a of the Birds ?

HOO. Station ?

PEI. As one should say, their habitation.

Here while the heavens revolve, and yon great dome

Is moving round, ye keep your Station still.

Make this your city, fence it round with walls,

And from your Station is evolved your State.

So ye'll be lords of men, as now of locusts,

And Melian famine ^b shall destroy the Gods.

HOO. Eh ! how ?

PEI. The Air's betwixt the Earth and Sky.

And just as we, if we would go to Pytho,

Must crave a grant of passage from Boeotia,

Even so, when men slay victims to the Gods,

Unless the Gods pay tribute, ye in turn

Will grant no passage for the savoury steam

To rise through Chaos, and a realm not theirs.

HOO. Hurrah !

O Earth ! ods traps, and nets, and gins, and snares,

This is the nattiest scheme that e'er I heard of !

So with your aid I'm quite resolved to found

The city, if the other birds concur.

PEI. And who shall tell them of our plan ?

HOO. Yourself.

O they're not mere barbarians, as they were

Before I came. I've taught them language now.

"moves about" (πολεῖται), and all things "go on in it" as they do in space (τόπος). Then πόλος suggests πόλις and πολίται. But it seems impossible to keep up the play on words. "I have given," says Rogers, "a slightly different turn to the passage."

^b About ten or twelve months before the production of this play, the Melians had been reduced by famine ; for their terrible fate see Thuc. v. 89-116.

THE BIRDS, 201-225

PEI. But how to call them hither ?

HOO. That's soon done.

I've but to step within the coppice here,
And wake my sleeping nightingale, and then
We'll call them, both together. Bless the birds,
When once they hear our voices, they'll come running.

PEI. You darling bird, now don't delay one instant.
O I beseech you get at once within
Your little copse, and wake the nightingale !

(The Hoopoe's Serenade.)

HOO. Awake, my mate !
Shake off thy slumbers, and clear and strong
Let loose the floods of thy glorious song,
The sacred dirge of thy mouth divine
For sore-wept Itys, thy child and mine ;
Thy tender trillings his name prolong
With the liquid note of thy tawny throat ; ^a
Through the leafy curls of the woodbine sweet
The pure sound mounts to the heavenly seat,
And Phoebus, lord of the golden hair,
As he lists to thy wild plaint echoing there,
Draws answering strains from his ivoried lyre,
Till he stirs the dance of the heavenly choir,
And calls from the blessed lips on high
Of immortal Gods, a divine reply
To the tones of thy witching melody.

(The sound of a flute is heard within, imitating the nightingale's song.)

EU. O Zeus and King, the little birdie's voice !
O how its sweetness honied all the copse !

PEI. Hi !

EU. Well ?

PEI. Keep quiet.

EU.

Why ?

PEI.

The Hoopoe here

Is going to favour us with another song.

(The Bird-call by the Hoopoe and Nightingale continued, the Nightingale's song being imitated, as before, by a first.)

HOO. Whoop-ho ! Whoop-ho !

Whoop-hoop-hoop-hoop-hoop-ho !

Hoi ! Hoi ! Hoi ! Come, come, come, come, come !

(The land-birds.)

Come hither any bird with plumage like my own ;
Come hither ye that batten on the acres newly sown,
On the acres by the farmer neatly sown ;
And the myriad tribes that feed on the barley and the seed,

The tribes that lightly fly, giving out a gentle cry ;
And ye who round the clod, in the furrow-riven sod,
With voices sweet and low, twitter flitter to and fro,
Singing tio, tio, tio, tiotinx ;

And ye who in the gardens a pleasant harvest glean,
Lurking in the branches of the ivy ever green ;
And ye who top the mountains with gay and airy flight ;
And ye who in the olive and the arbutus delight ;
Come hither one and all, come flying to our call,
Triotó, triotó, totobrinx.

Ye that snap up the gnats, shrilly voiced,^a
Mid the deep water-glens of the fens,
Or on Marathon's expanse haunt the lea, fair to see,
Or career o'er the swamps, dewy-moist,
And the bird with the gay mottled plumes, come away,

THE BIRDS, 252-273

Come to the great Revolution awaiting us,
Hither, come hither, come hither to me.
Hither, to listen to wonderful words,
Hither we summon the taper-necked birds.

For hither has come a shrewd old file,
Such a deep old file, such a sharp old file,
His thoughts are new, new deeds he'll do,
Come here, and confer with this shrewd old file.
Come hither ! Come hither ! Come hither !
Toro-toro-toro-torotinx !
Kikkabau, kikkabau !
Toro-toro-toro-toro-lililinx !

PEI. See any bird ?

EU. By Apollo no, not I,
Though up I gaze with mouth and eyes wide open.

PEI. Methinks the Hoopoe played the lapwing's trick,^a Went in the copse, and whooped, and whooped for nothing.

HOO. Torotinx ! Torotinx.

PEI. Comrade, here's a bird approaching, coming to receive our visit.^b

EU. Aye by Zeus, what bird do you call it ?
Surely not a peacock, is it ?

PEI. That the Hoopoe here will teach us.
Prithee, friend, what bird is he ?

HOO. That is not a common object, such as you can always see ;

That's a marsh-bird.

EU. Lovely creature ! nice and red like flaming flame.

HOO. So he should be, for Flamingo is the lovely creature's name.

Callias siring Hipponicus, Hipponicus Callias.^c

he's to parasites a prey.

And the females flock around him, plucking out his feathers too.

of so many birds, I pray ?

Are they going to race in armour ?^a

From the doom that upon them I will wreak.

Tarry ye not an instant longer.

Brigadier, advance our right.

PEI. Snatch up a spit, like a hoplite's spear,
Planting it firmly there before you.

EU. What shall I do about my eyes ?

holding it over them buckler-wise.

You would slay two worthy persons, kinsmen, clansmen, of my mate ? ^a

Men who never sought to harm you, would you tear and lacerate ?

CH. Why, I wonder, should we spare them, more than ravening beasts of prey ?

Shall we ever find, for vengeance, enemies more rank than they ?

HOO. Enemies, I grant, by nature, very friends in heart and will ;

Here they come with kindly purpose, useful lessons to instil

CH. What, they come with words of friendship ?
What, you really then suppose

They will teach us useful lessons, they our fathers' fathers' foes ?

HOO. Yet to clever folk a foeman very useful hints may show ;

Thus, that foresight brings us safety,
from a friend we ne'er should know,

But the truth is forced upon us, very quickly, by a foe.
Hence it is that all the Cities,

taught by foe, and not by friend,
Learn to build them ships of battle, and their lofty walls extend ;

So by this, a foeman's, teaching children, home, and wealth defend.

CH. Well, I really think 'tis better that their errand we should know ;

I admit that something useful may be taught us by a foe.

PEL. (to Eu.) Now their anger grows more slack ;
now we had better just draw back.

THE BIRDS, 412-436

- HOO. Love of you, Love of your Life and ways Was the lure.
 Here they fain Would remain
 Comrades true All their days.
- CH. Hey, hey, what do you say ?
 What is the tale they tell ?
- HOO. In brief,
 'Tis something more than past belief.
- CH. But wherefore is he come ? What is it
 He seeks to compass by his visit ?
 Think you he's got some cunning plan
 Whereby, allied with us, he can Assist a friend, or harm a foe ?
 What brings him here, I'd like to know.
- HOO. Too great, too great, for thought or words,
 The bliss he promises the birds.
 All things are yours, he says, whate'er
 Exists in space, both here and there,
 And to and fro, and everywhere.^a
- CH. Mad a little, eh ?
- HOO. More sane than words can say.
- CH. Wide awake ?
- HOO. Wide as day.
 The subtlest cunningest fox,
 All scheme, invention, craft ; wit, wisdom, paradox.
- CH. His speech, his speech, bid him begin it.
 The things you show excite me so,
 I'm fit to fly this very minute.
- HOO. Now you and you,^b take back this panoply,
 And hang it up, God bless it, out of sight
 Within the kitchen there, beside the Jack.^c stool with three legs, perforated at the top (Schol.) ; (2) a clay figure of Hephaestus, placed by the hearth (Eustathius, Hom. Od. xvii. 455) ; (3) a stand full of pegs or hooks.

THE BIRDS, 437-459

But you (to Pei.) the things we summoned them to hear
Expound, declare.

PEI. By Apollo no, not I,
Unless they pledge me such a treaty-pledge
As that small jackanapes ^a who makes the swords
Pledged with his wife, to wit that they'll not bite me
Nor pull me about, nor scratch my—^b

CH. Fie, for shame !
Not this ? no, no !

PEI. My eyes, I was going to say.

CH. I pledge it.

PEI. Swear !

CH. I swear on these conditions ;
So may I win by every judge's vote,
And the whole Theatre's.

PEI. AND SO YOU SHALL.

CH. But if I'm false, then by one vote alone.

HOO. O yes ! O yes ! Hoplites, take up your arms
And march back homewards ; there await the orders
We're going to publish on the notice-boards.

CH. Full of wiles, full of guiles, at all times, in all ways,
Are the children of Men ; still we'll hear what he says.

Thou hast haply detected
Something good for the Birds which we never suspected ;

Some power of achievement, too high
For my own shallow wit by itself to descry.

But if aught you espy,
Tell it out ; for whate'er of advantage shall fall
To ourselves by your aid, shall be common to all.

this formal compact with his wife.

THE BIRDS, 460-473

So expound us the plan you have brought us, my man, not doubting, it seems, of success.

And don't be afraid, for the treaty we made we won't be the first to transgress.

PEI. I am hot to begin, and my spirit within is fermenting the tale to declare.

And my dough I will knead, for there's nought to impede. Boy, bring me a wreath for my hair,^a

And a wash for my hands.

EU. Why, what mean these commands ?

Is a dinner in near contemplation ?

PEI. No dinner, I ween ; 'tis a SPEECH that I mean,
a stalwart and brawny oration,

Their spirit to batter, and shiver and shatter.

(To the Birds) So sorely I grieve for your lot
Who once in the prime and beginning of time were Sovereigns—

CH. We Sovereigns ! of what ?

PEI. Of all that you see ; of him and of me ;

of Zeus up above on his throne ;

A lineage older and nobler by far than the Titans and Cronos ye own,

And than Earth.

CH. And than Earth !

PEI. By Apollo 'tis true.

CH. And I never had heard it before !

PEI. Because you've a blind uninquisitive mind, unaccustomed on Aesop to pore.^b

The lark had her birth, so he says, before Earth ;

then her father fell sick and he died.

E. 131. It was also used in banquets ; but the rinsing of the hands belonged to the banquet. P. regards his speech as a feast, and leads up to it by the metaphors taken from bakery : fermentation, mixing, and kneading.

 so ample he waxed and so strong;^a
 That still the tradition is potent, and still,
 when he sings in the morning his song;^b
 At once from their sleep all mortals upleap,
 the cobblers, the tanners, the bakers,
 The potters, the bathmen, the smiths, and the shieldand-the-musical-instrument-makers ;
 And some will at eve take their sandals and leave.

EU. I can answer for that, to my cost.
 'Twas all through his crowing at eve that my cloak,
 the softest of Phrygians, I lost.
 I was asked to the Tenth-day feast of a child^c ;
 and I drank ere the feast was begun ;
 Then I take my repose ; and anon the cock crows ;
 so thinking it daybreak I run
 To return from the City to Halimus town^d ;
 but scarce I emerge from the wall,
 When I get such a whack with a stick on my back from a rascally thief, that I fall,
 And he skims^e off my cloak from my shoulders or e'er for assistance I'm able to bawl.

PEI. Then a Kite was the Sovereign of Hellas of old, and ruled with an absolute sway.

CH. The Sovereign of Hellas !

PEI. And, taught by his rule, we wallow on earth to this day
 When a Kite we espy.

^a A bird was often represented on the helmet of a deity; as the eagle is proper for Zeus, the falcon will do for Apollo.

THE BIRDS, 515-535

Stands wearing, as Royalty's emblem and badge, an Eagle erect on his head,

Our Lady an owl, and Apollo forsooth,
as a lackey, a falcon^a instead.

EU. By Demeter, 'tis true ; that is just what they do ;
but tell me the reason, I pray.

PEI. That the bird may be ready and able, whene'er the sacrificed inwards we lay,

As custom demands, in the deity's hands,
to seize before Zeus on the fare.

And none by the Gods, but all by the Birds,
were accustomed aforetime to swear :

And Lampon ^b will vow by the Goose even now, whenever he's going to cheat you :

So holy and mighty they deemed you of old,
with so deep a respect did they treat you !

Now they treat you as knaves,
and as fools, and as slaves ;

Yea they pelt you as though ye were mad.

No safety for you can the Temples ensure,

For the bird-catcher sets his nooses and nets,

And his traps, and his toils, and his bait, and his lure,
And his lime-covered rods in the shrine of the Gods !

Then he takes you, and sets you for sale in the lump ;
And the customers, buying, come poking and prying

And twitching and trying,

To feel if your bodies are tender and plump.

And if they decide on your flesh to sup

They don't just roast you and serve you up,

But over your bodies, as prone ye lie,

They grate their cheese and their silphium too,

And oil and vinegar add,

Then a gravy, luscious and rich, they brew,

But now thou art come, by good Fortune's decree,

And then let another ambassador-bird to men with this message be sent,
That the Birds being Sovereigns, to them must be paid

And the Gods for the future to them be postponed.
Now therefore assort and combine
Each God with a bird, whichever will best

If a sheep to Poseidon ye slay, to the duck

THE BIRDS, 570-583

- EU. I am tickled and pleased with the sacrificed nidge.
 Now thunder away, great Zan ^a !
- CH. But men, will they take us for Gods, and not daws,— do ye really believe that they can—
 If they see us on wings flying idly about ?
- PEI. Don't say such ridiculous things !
 Why, Hermes, and lots of the deities too, go flying about upon wings.
 There is Victory, bold on her pinions of gold ;
 and then, by the Powers, there is Love ;
 And Iris, says Homer, shoots straight through the skies, with the ease of a terrified dove.^b
- EU. And the thunderbolt flies upon wings, I surmise :
 what if Zeus upon us let it fall ?
- PEI. But suppose that mankind, being stupid and blind, should account you as nothing at all,
 And still in the Gods of Olympus believe—why then, like a cloud, shall a swarm
 Of sparrows and rooks settle down on their stooks, and devour all the seed in the farm.
 Demeter may fill them with grain, if she will,
 when hungry and pinched they entreat her.^c
- EU. O no, for by Zeus, she will make some excuse ; that is always the way with Demeter.
- PEI. And truly the ravens shall pluck out the eyes of the oxen that work in the plough,
 Of the flocks and the herds, as a proof that the Birds are the Masters and Potentates now.^d

^b Hermes, Victory, Iris, and Eros were represented with wings. In the Iliad (v. 778) Hera and Athena are compared to τρήρωσι πελειάσιν ; in the Hymn to Apollo, Iris and Eileithyia.

^c An allusion to the doles of wheat often promised by demagogues.

^d As a test of the power of the Birds, and the powerlessness of the Gods.

THE BIRDS, 584-599

Apollo the leech, if his aid they beseech,

may cure them ; but then they must pay !

EU. Nay but hold, nay but hold, nor begin till I've sold my two little oxen I pray.

PEI. But when once to esteem you as God, and as Life, and as Cronos and Earth they've begun,
And as noble Poseidon, what joys shall be theirs !

CH. Will you kindly inform me of one ?

PEI. The delicate tendrils and bloom of the vine
no more shall the locusts molest,
One gallant brigade of the kestrels and owls shall rid them at once of the pest.
No more shall the mite and the gall-making blight
the fruit of the fig-tree devour ;
Of thrushes one troop on their armies shall swoop,
and clear them all off in an hour.

CH. But how shall we furnish the people with wealth ?
It is wealth that they mostly desire.

PEI. Choice blessings and rare ye shall give them whene'er they come to your shrine to inquire.
To the seer ye shall tell when 'tis lucky and well
for a merchant to sail o'er the seas,
So that never a skipper again shall be lost.

CH. What, "never" ? Explain if you please.

PEI. Are they seeking to know when a voyage to go ?
The Birds shall give answers to guide them.

Now stick to the land, there's a tempest at hand !

Now sail ! and good luck shall betide them.

EU. A galley for me ; I am off to the sea !

No longer with you will I stay.

PEI. The treasures of silver long since in the earth
by their forefathers hidden away

THE BIRDS, 600-617

To men ye shall show, for the secret ye know.

How often a man will declare,
There is no one who knows where my treasures repose,
if it be not a bird of the air.^a

EU. My galley may go ; I will buy me a hoe, and dig for the crock and the casket.

CH. But Health, I opine, is a blessing divine ;
 can we give it to men if they ask it ?

PEI. If they've plenty of wealth, they'll have plenty of health ;

ye may rest quite assured that they will.
 Did you ever hear tell of a man that was well,
 when faring remarkably ill ?

CH. Long life 'tis Olympus alone can bestow ;
 so can men live as long as before ?

Must they die in their youth ?

PEI. Die ? No ! why in truth their lives by three hundred or more

New years ye will lengthen.

CH. Why, whence will they come ?

PEI. From your own inexhaustible store.

What! dost thou not know that the noisy-tongued crow lives five generations of men ?

EU. O fie ! it is plain they are fitter to reign than the Gods ; let us have them again.

PEI. Ay fitter by far !

No need for their sakes to erect and adorn
 Great temples of marble with portals of gold.
 Enough for the birds on the brake and the thorn
 And the evergreen oak their receptions to hold.
 Or if any are noble, and courtly, and fine,
 The tree of the olive will serve for their shrine.

^a Delphi, with the oracle of Apollo; Ammon in Libya, with the oracle of Zeus.

THE BIRDS, 618-641

No need, when a blessing we seek, to repair
To Delphi or Ammon,^a and sacrifice there ;
We will under an olive or arbutus stand
 With a present of barley and wheat,
And piously lifting our heart and our hand
 The birds for a boon we'll entreat,
And the boon shall be ours, and our suit we shall gain
At the cost of a few little handfuls of grain.

CH. I thought thee at first of my foemen the worst ;
 and lo, I have found thee the wisest
And best of my friends, and our nation intends to do whatsoe'er thou advisest.
A spirit so lofty and rare
Thy words have within me excited,
That I lift up my soul, and I swear
That if Thou wilt with Me be united
In bonds that are holy and true
And honest and just and sincere,
If our hearts are attuned to one song,
We will march on the Gods without fear ;
The sceptre—MY sceptre, MY due,—
They shall not be handling it long !
So all that by muscle and strength can be done,
 we Birds will assuredly do ;
But whatever by prudence and skill must be won,
 we leave altogether to you.

HOO. Aye and, by Zeus, the time is over now
For drowsy nods and Nicias-hesitations.^b
We must be up and doing ! And do you,

^b The word is coined in reference to the dilatory character of Nicias (cf. Thuc. vi. 8-25), and also seems to suggest "delaying victory."

THE BIRDS, 685-698

Ye men who are dimly existing below,
 who perish and fade as the leaf,
Pale, woebegone, shadowlike, spiritless folk,
 life feeble and wingless and brief,
Frail castings in clay, who are gone in a day,
 like a dream full of sorrow and sighing,
Come listen with care to the Birds of the air,
 the ageless, the deathless, who flying
In the joy and the freshness of Ether, are wont to muse upon wisdom undying.
We will tell you of things transcendental ; of Springs and of Rivers the mighty upheaval ;
The nature of Birds ; and the birth of the Gods :
 and of Chaos and Darkness primeval.^a
When this ye shall know, let old Prodicus^b go, and be hanged without hope of reprieval.

THERE WAS Chaos at first, and Darkness, and Night, and Tartarus vasty and dismal^c :
But the Earth was not there, nor the Sky, nor the Air,
till at length in the bosom abysmal
Of Darkness an egg, from the whirlwind conceived, was laid by the sable-plumed Night.
And out of that egg, as the Seasons revolved, sprang Love, the entrancing, the bright,^d
Love brilliant and bold with his pinions of gold, like a whirlwind, refulgent and sparkling !
Love hatched us, commingling in Tartarus wide, with Chaos, the murky, the darkling.

counterpart in Hesiod. We must seek its origin, as Beck observes, in the old Orphic legends, which taught that from a mystic egg, representing the undeveloped universe, sprang Φάνης, the prototype of Έρως, the creator of all things, χρυσεΐας περιώγεσσι φορέυμενος ἐνθα καὶ ἐνθα. From the same source comes the ἀπείροσι κόλποις (in the Orphic hymns ἀπειρεσίους ὑπὸ κόλποις) mentioned two lines above": R.

THE BIRDS, 714-733

And the Spring sheep-shearing begins ; and next,
your woollen attire you sell,
And buy you a lighter and daintier garb,
when you note the return of the swallow.
Thus your Ammon, Dodona, and Delphi are we ;
we are also your Phoebus Apollo.^a
For whatever you do, if a trade you pursue, or goods in the market are buying,
Or the wedding attend of a neighbour and friend,
first you look to the Birds and their flying.
And whene'er you of omen or augury speak,
'tis a bird you are always repeating ;
A Rumour's a bird, and a sneeze is a bird,
and so is a word or a meeting,^b
A servant's a bird, and an ass is a bird.

It must therefore assuredly follow
That the Birds are to you (I protest it is true) your prophetic divining Apollo.

Then take us for Gods, as is proper and fit,
And Muses Prophetic ye'll have at your call
Spring, winter, and summer, and autumn and all.^c
And we won't run away from your worship, and sit
Up above in the clouds, very stately and grand,
Like Zeus in his tempers : but always at hand
Health and wealth we'll bestow, as the formula runs,
ON YOURSELVES, AND YOUR SONS, AND THE SONS OF YOUR SONS : ^d

And happiness, plenty, and peace shall belong
To you all ; and the revel, the dance, and the song,
And laughter, and youth, and the milk of the birds

THE BIRDS, 734-757

We'll supply, and we'll never forsake you.
Ye'll be quite overburdened with pleasures and joys,
So happy and blest we will make you.

O woodland Muse,
tio, tio, tio, tiotinix,
 Of varied plume, with whose dear aid
 On the mountain top, and the sylvan glade,
tio, tio, tio, tiotinix,
 I, sitting up aloft on a leafy ash, full oft,
tio, tio, tio, tiotinix,
 Pour forth a warbling note from my little tawny throat,^a Pour festive choral dances to the mountain mother's praise,
 And to Pan the holy music of his own immortal lays;^b
totótótótótótótótotinix,
 Whence Phrynichus^c of old,
 Sipping the fruit of our ambrosial lay,
 Bore, like a bee, the honied store away,
 His own sweet songs to mould.
tio, tio, tio, tio, tiotinix.

Is there anyone amongst you,
O spectators, who would lead
With the birds a life of pleasure, let him come to us with speed.
All that here is reckoned shameful,
all that here the laws condemn,
With the birds is right and proper,
you may do it all with them.
Is it here by law forbidden for a son to beat his sire?

pides, Helen 1111 (a tragedy which was exhibited three years after the Birds), may have been borrowing from him, not from A.

^b "Spintharus, Execestides, and Acestor were obviously all birds of a feather; all struck off the register of Athenian citizens, as not being genuine Athenians at all. See the notes on 11 and 31 supra. Execestides is described as a Carian slave, Acestor as a Scythian, and Spintharus as a Phrygian": R.

^c A Phrygian and Barbarian; Schol.

^d πάππος is both "a grandfather" and the name of some bird. "Execestides, an alien in an Athenian phratry, is like a young cuckoo in the nest of the πάππος. But let him breed πάπποι in birdland, and he will have πάππους ανος, who (as aves) are genuine natives, and so he will be fully qualified to enter into a phratry there": R.

^e Some rascal unknown. If he was connected with some treachery in the North-west, ἐκπερδικίσαι may allude to the shifty Perdicas of Macedon.

^a κύκλια dithyrambic songs, παρθένεια songs for a chorus of maidens. Simonides was famous for all kinds of lyrics.

^b See 493.

^c Pindar, addressing Hiero (Ἱέρων), who had re-colonized Catana under the name of Aetna, said: σύνες ὅ τοι λέγω, ζαθέων

Dithyrambic songs,^a on your Cloudecuckooburries.

PEI. When did you first begin these lovely songs ?

PO. Long, long ago, O yes ! Long, long ago !

PEI. Why, is not this the City's Tenth-day^b feast ?

I've just this instant given the child its name.

PO. But fleet, as the merry many-twinkling horses' feet,

The airy fairy Rumour of the Muses.

Aetna's Founder, father mine,

Whose name is the same as the holy altar flame,^c

Give to me what thy bounty chooses

To give me willingly of thine.

PEI. He'll cause us trouble now, unless we give him

Something, and so get off. Hallo, you priest,

Why, you've a jerkin and a tunic too ;

Strip, give the jerkin to this clever poet.

Take it ; upon my word you do seem cold.

PO. This little kindly gift the Muse

Accepts with willing condescension ;

But let me to an apt remark

Of Pindar call my lord's attention.

PEI. The fellow does not seem inclined to leave us.

PO. Out among the Scythians yonder

See poor Straton wander, wander,^d

Poor poor Straton, not possessed of a whirly-woven vest.

All inglorious comes, I trow, leather jerkin, if below

No soft tunic it can show.

Conceive my drift, I pray.

ιερώων ὁμώνυμε, πάτερ, κτίστωρ Αἴτνας (Schol.). See also Pindar, Pyth. ii. 127, Nem. vii. 1, below 945.

PEI. Aye, I conceive you want the tunic too.
Off with it, you. Needs must assist a Poet.
There, take it, and depart.

PO. Yes, I'll depart,
And make to the city pretty songs like this ;
O Thou of the golden throne,
Sing Her, the quivering, shivering ;
I came to the plains many-sown,
I came to the snowy, the blowy.

Alalae !^a

PEI. Well, well, but now you surely have escaped unintelligible, ἐπίτηδες ἀδιανόητα, as Symmachus says in the scholium. He claims to have solved the problem of squaring the circle; whilst in πνεύς and διαβήτης there appears to be some reminiscence of Clouds, 96, 178. However the diagram which he explains to Peisthetaerus seems to be to the following effect. He has with him several κανόνες, of which one at least is flexible. Drawing a circle with a pair of compasses he lays the flexible κανών over the circumference, then with the straight rods he makes radii extending from the centre to, and beyond, the circumference. These are the streets which lead from the market-place to, and through, the city gates": R.

THE BIRDS, 1088-1109

O the happy clan of birds
 Clad in feather ;
Needing not a woollen vest in Wintry weather ;
Heeding not the warm far-flashing
 Summer ray,
For within the leafy bosoms
Of the flowery meads I stay,
When the Chirrupee in ecstasy is shrilling forth his tune, Maddened with the sunshine,
 and the rapture of the noon.
And I winter in the caverns'
 Hollow spaces,
With the happy Oreads playing ; and in Spring
I crop the virgin flowers of the myrtles white and tender,
Dainties that are fashioned in the gardens of the Graces.
Now we wish to tell the Judges,
 in a friendly sort of way,
All the blessings we shall give them
 if we gain the prize to-day.
Ne'er were made to Alexander lovelier promises or grander.
First, what every Judge amongst you most of all desires to win, Little Lauriotic owlets " shall be always flocking in.
Ye shall find them all about you,
 as the dainty brood increases,
Building nests within your purses, hatching little silver pieces.
Then as if in stately Temples shall your happy lives be spent,

THE BIRDS, 1110-1129

For the birds will top your mansions with the Eagle pediment.^a
If you hold some petty office, if you wish to steal and pick,
In your hands we'll place a falcon,
very keen and small and quick.
If a dinner is in question,
crops we'll send you for digestion.
But should you the prize deny us,
you had better all prepare,
Like the statues in the open,
little copper disks^b to wear ;
Else whene'er abroad ye're walking, clad in raiment white and new,
Angry birds will wreak their vengeance,
spattering over it and you.^c

PER. Dear Birds, our sacrifice is most auspicious.
But strange it is, no messenger has come
From the great wall we are building, with the news.
Hah! here runs one with true Alpheian pantings.^d

MESSANGER. Where, where,—O where, where, where,— O where, where, where,
Where, where's our leader Peisthetaerus?

PEI. Here.

MES. Your building's built! The wall's complete!

PEI. Well done.

MES. And a most grand, magnificent work it is.
So broad, that on its top the Braggadocian
Proxenides could pass Theagenes^e
Each driving in his chariot, drawn by horses
As bulky as the Trojan.

PEI. Heracles !

PEI. Poseidon, what a height !

Who built it up to that enormous size ?

MES. The birds, none other ; no Egyptian, bearing
The bricks, no mason, carpenter was there ;
Their own hands wrought it, marvellous to see.
From Libya came some thirty thousand cranes
With great foundation-stones they had swallowed down ;^b

And these the corn-crakes fashioned with their beaks.
Ten thousand storks were carrying up the bricks ;^c
And lapwings helped, and the other water-birds,
To bring the water up into the air.

PEI. Who bare aloft the mortar for them ?

MES. Herons

In hods.

PEI. But how did they get the mortar in ?

MES. O that was most ingeniously contrived.

The geese struck down their feet, and slid them under,
Like shovels, and so heaved it on the hods.

PEI. Then is there anything that FEET can't do !^d

MES. And then the ducks, with girdles round their waists, Carried the bricks : and up the swallows flew,
Like serving-lads, carrying behind them each
His trowel, and the mortar in their mouths.

PEI. Then why should men hire hirelings any more !

MES. Canny Pelicans,^a
Excellent workmen, hewing with huge beaks
Gate-timber ; and the uproar as they hewed
Was like an arsenal when ships are building.
Now every gateway has its gate, fast-barred,
And watched the whole way round ; and birds are pacing

Their beats, and carrying bells, and everywhere
The guards are stationed, and the beacons blaze
On every tower. But I must hurry off
And wash myself. You, manage what remains.

To hear the building has been built so soon ?

Slay sheep to the Olympian Gods, and steam

Victims to them ; and not, by Zeus, to Zeus.
- IR. O fool, fool, fool ! Stir not the mighty wrath
Of angry Gods, lest Justice, with the spade
Of vengeful Zeus, demolish all thy race,
And fiery vapour, with Licymnian strokes,^a Incinerate thy palace and thyself !
- PEI. Now listen, girl ; have done with that bombast.
(Don't move.) A Lydian or a Phrygian^b is it,
You think to terrify with words like those ?
Look here. If Zeus keep troubling me, I'll soon
Incinerate his great Amphion's domes^c
And halls of state with eagles carrying fire.^d
And up against him, to high heaven, I'll send
More than six hundred stout Porphyryion rails
All clad in leopard-skins. Yet I remember
When one Porphyryion gave him toil enough.
And as for you, his waiting-maid, if you
Keep troubling me with your outrageous ways,
I'll outrage you, and you'll be quite surprised
To find the strength of an old man like me.

THE BIRDS, 1257-1288

IR. O shame upon you, wretch, your words and you.

PEI. Now then begone ; shoo, shoo ! Eurax patax !

IR. My father won't stand this ; I vow he won't.

PEI. Now Zeus-a-mercy, maiden ; fly you off,
Incinerate some younger man than I.^a

CH. Never again shall the Zeus-born Gods,
Never again shall they pass this way !
Never again through this realm of ours
Shall men send up to the heavenly Powers
The savour of beasts which on earth they slay !

PEI. Well but that herald whom we sent to men,
'Tis strange if he should nevermore return.^b

HERALD. O Peisthetaerus, O thou wisest, best,
Thou wisest, deepest, happiest of mankind,
Most glorious, most—O give the word !

PEI. What news ?

HER. Accept this golden crown, wherewith all peoples
Crown and revere thee for thy wisdom's sake !

PEI. I do. What makes them all revere me so ?

HER. O thou who hast built the ethereal glorious city,
Dost thou not know how men revere thy name,
And burn with ardour for this realm of thine ?
Why, till ye built this city in the air,
All men had gone Laconian-mad ; they went
Long-haired, half-starved, unwashed, Socratified,
With scytales in their hands ; but O the change !
They are all bird-mad now, and imitate
The birds, and joy to do whate'er birds do.
Soon as they rise from bed at early dawn,
They settle down on laws, as ye on lawns,^c
And then they brood upon their leaves and leaflets,

^a νόμος law, νομός pasture ; βιβλία, books or the rind of the papyrus ; ψήφισμα, statute, ψήφος, pebble.

And feed their fill upon a crop of statutes.
 So undisguised their madness, that full oft
 The names of birds are fastened on to men.

They dub Menippus "Swallow"^a; and Opuntius
 "Blind Raven"^b; Philocles is "Crested Lark," Theagenes^c is nicknamed "Sheldrake" now;
 Lycurgus "Ibis"; Chaerephon the "Vampire";
 And Syracosius^d "Jay"; whilst Meidias there
 Is called the "Quail"; aye and he's like a quail
 Flipped on the head by some quail-filliper.^e
 So fond they are of birds that all are singing
 Songs where a swallow figures in the verse,
 Or goose, or may-be widgeon, or ring-dove,
 Or wings, or even the scantiest shred of feather.
 So much from earth. And let me tell you this;
 More than ten thousand men will soon be here,
 All wanting wings and taloned modes of life.
 Somehow or other you must find them wings.

PEI. O then, by Zeus, no time for dallying now;
 Quick, run you^f in; collect the crates and baskets,
 And fill them all with wings; that done, let Manes
 Bring me them out; whilst I, remaining here,
 Receive the wingless travellers as they come.

THE BIRDS, 1314-1341

If men in such numbers invade us.

PEI. So fortune continue to aid us.

CH. O, the love of my City the world has enthralled !

PEI. (to Manes) Bring quicker the baskets they're packing

CH. For in what is it lacking

That a man for his home can require ?

Here is Wisdom, and Wit, and each exquisite Grace,

And here the unruffled, benevolent face

Of Quiet, and loving Desire.

PEI. Why, what a lazy loon are you !

Come, move a little faster, do.

CH. O see that he brings me a basket of wings.

Rush out in a whirlwind of passion,

And wallop him, after this fashion.

For the rogue is as slow as a donkey to go.

PEI. No pluck has your Manes, 'tis true.

CH. But now 'tis for you

The wings in due order to set ;

Both the musical wings, and the wings of the seers,

And the wings of the sea, that as each one appears,

The wings that he wants you can get.

PEI. O, by the kestrels, I can't keep my hands

From banging you, you lazy, crazy oaf.^a

SIRE-STRIKER (singing). O that I might as an eagle be,

Flying, flying, flying, flying

Over the surge of the untilled sea !

PEI. Not false, methinks, the tale our envoy told us.

For here comes one whose song is all of eagles.

s.-s. Fie on it !

There's nothing in this world so sweet as flying ;

I've quite a passion for these same bird-laws.

In fact I'm gone bird-mad, and fly, and long

To dwell with you, and hunger for your laws.

PEI. Which of our laws ? for birds have many laws.

s.-s. All ! All ! but most of all that jolly law

Which lets a youngster throttle and beat his father.

PEI. Aye, if a cockerel beat his father here,

We do indeed account him quite a—Man.

s.-s. That's why I moved up hither and would fain

Throttle my father and get all he has.

PEI. But there's an ancient law among the birds,

You'll find it in the tablets ^a of the storks ;

When the old stork has brought his storklings up,

And all are fully fledged for flight, then they Must in their turn maintain the stork their father.

s.-s. A jolly lot of good I've gained by coming,

If now I've got to feed my father too !

PEI. Nay, my poor boy, you came here well-disposed,

And so I'll rig you like an orphan ^b bird.

And here's a new suggestion, not a bad one,

But what I learnt myself when I was young.

Don't beat your father, lad ; but take this wing,

And grasp this spur of battle in your hand,

And think this crest a game-cock's martial comb.

Now march, keep guard, live on your soldier's pay,

And let your father be. If you want fighting,

I'll do it too.

CINESIAS (singing). On the lightest of wings I am soaring on high,^b

Lightly from measure to measure I fly ;

PEI. Bless me, this creature wants a pack of wings !

CI. (singing) And ever the new I am fitting to find,
With timorless body, and timorless mind.

PEI. We clasp Cinesias, man of linden-wyth.^c

Why in the world have you whirled your splay foot hither ?

CI. (singing) To be a bird, a bird, I long,
A nightingale of thrilling song.

PEI. O stop that singing ; prithee speak in prose.

CI. O give me wings, that I may soar on high,
And pluck poetic fancies from the clouds,
Wild as the whirling winds, and driving snows.

PEI. What, do you pluck your fancies from the clouds ?

CI. Why our whole trade depends upon the clouds ;
What are our noblest dithyrambs but things
Of air, and mist, and purple-gleaming depths,
And feathery whirlwings ? You shall hear, and judge.

PEI. No, no, I won't.

CI. By Heracles you shall.

I'll go through all the air, dear friend, for you.

(Singing) Shadowy visions of Wing-spreading, air-treading,
Taper-necked birds.

Here comes another, warbling like the rest.

SY. (singing) Again I ask thee, tell me, tell me true,

O long-winged bird, O bird of varied hue !

PEI. At his own cloak his catch appears to point ;

More than one swallow^f that requires, I'm thinking.

SY. Which is the man that wings the visitors ?

PEI. He stands before you. What do you please to want ?

THE BIRDS, 1444-1466

"Aye," says another, "and that boy of mine Flutters his wings at every Tragic Play."

SY. So then by talk they are winged.

PEI. Exactly so.

Through talk the mind flutters and soars aloft,
And all the man takes wing. And so even now
I wish to turn you, winging you by talk,
To some more honest trade.

SY. But I don't wish.

PEI. How then?

SY. I'll not disgrace my bringing up.
I'll ply the trade my father's fathers plied.
So wing me, please, with light quick-darting wings
Falcon's or kestrel's, so I'll serve my writs
Abroad on strangers; then accuse them here;
Then dart back there again.

PEI. I understand.
So when they come, they'll find the suit decided,
And payment ordered.

SY. Right! you understand.

PEI. And while they're sailing hither you'll fly there,
And seize their goods for payment.

SY. That's the trick!
Round like a top I'll whizz.

PEI. I understand.
A whipping-top; and here by Zeus I've got Fine Corcyraean^a wings to set you whizzing.

SY. O, it's a whip!

PEI. Nay, friend, a pair of wings,
To set you spinning round and round to-day.
(Striking him.)

SY. O! O! O! O!

^a Corcyra was famous for its scourges, used by the officials in the many riots there.

Wobble away, you most confounded rascal !
I'll make you spin ! I'll law-perverting-trick you !
Now let us gather up the wings and go.^a

CH. We've been flying, we've been flying
Over sea and land, espying
Many a wonder strange and new.
First, a tree of monstrous girth,
Tall and stout, yet nothing worth,
For 'tis rotten through and through ;
It has got no heart,^b and we Heard it called " Cleonymus-tree."
In the spring it blooms gigantic,
Fig-traducing, sycophantic,
Yet in falling leaf-time yields
Nothing but a fall of shields.

Next a spot by darkness skirted,
Spot, by every light deserted,^c
Lone and gloomy, we descried.
There the human and divine,
Men with heroes, mix and dine
Freely, save at even-tide.
'Tis not safe for mortal men
To encounter heroes then.
Then the great Orestes, looming
Vast and awful through the glooming,
On their right a stroke delivering,^d
Leaves them palsied, stript, and shivering.^e

^a A parody of Σκυθῶν ἐρημία, Aesch. P. V. 2 ; see A. 704.

^b The ghost of a hero, met at night, caused paralysis.

^c Enter Prometheus, concealing his face, probably recalling some scene in the "Prometheus Fire-bringer" of Aeschylus.

THE BIRDS, 1514-1539

PEI. Good gracious me ! since when ?

PR. Since first you built your city in the air.
 For never from that hour does mortal bring Burnt-offerings to the Gods, or savoury steam
 Ascend to heaven from flesh of victims slain.
 So now we fast a Thesmophorian fast,^a
 No altars burning ; and the Barbarous Gods
 Half-starved, and gibbering like Illyrians, vow
 That they'll come marching down on Zeus, unless
 He gets the marts reopened, and the bits
 Of savoury inwards introduced once more.

PEI. What, are there really other Gods, Barbarians,
 Up above^b you ?

PR. Barbarians ? Yes ; thence comes
 The ancestral God of Execestides.

PEI. And what's the name of these Barbarian Gods ?

PR. The name ? Triballians.^c

PEI. Aye, I understand.

'Tis from that quarter Tribulation comes.

PR. Exactly so. And now I tell you this ;
 Envoys will soon be here to treat for peace,
 Sent down by Zeus and those Triballians there.
 But make no peace, mind that, unless king Zeus
 Restores the sceptre to the Birds again,
 And gives yourself Miss Sovereignty to wife.

PEI. And who's Miss Sovereignty ?

PR. The loveliest girl.

'Tis she who keeps the thunderbolts of Zeus,
 And all his stores,—good counsels, happy laws,

^b The Athenians used ἀνω in a geographical sense to indicate the north.

^c A fierce Thracian tribe. A few years before they had defeated and slain Sitalces (Thuc. iv. 101), perhaps driven by famine, like the "Barbarous Gods."

CH. Next we saw a sight appalling,
Socrates, unwashed, was calling
Spirits from the lake below,
('Twas on that enchanted ground
Where the Shadow-feet ^d are found).

There Peisander came to know
If the spirit cowards lack Socrates could conjure back ;
Then a camel-lamb he slew,
Like Odysseus,^e but withdrew,

Aelian says that others walked beside these, holding sunshades to protect them.

^a A mythical tribe, who used their huge feet to shade their heads.

^e The reference is to Hom. Od. xi. 35-51 where Odysseus summons the souls of the dead by slaying sheep and letting the blood pour into a trench. Here Peisander who never had any "spirit" (ψυχή) comes to see if Socrates can get it back for him, but cannot go through with the ordeal, and leaves the blood to the dried-up, ghost-like Chaerephon (cf. 1296).

PEI. O welcome, Heracles !

What brings you hither ?

POS. We are envoys, sent

Down by the Gods to settle terms of peace.

SERVANT. There's no more oil remaining in the flask.

HE. O dear ! and bird's-flesh should be rich and glistening.

POS. We Gods gain nothing by the war ; and you,
Think what ye'll get by being friends with us ;
Rain-water in the pools, and halcyon days
Shall be your perquisites the whole year through.
We've ample powers to settle on these terms.

PEI. It was not we who ever wished for war,
And now, if even now ye come prepared
With fair proposals, ye will find us ready
To treat for peace. What I call fair is this ;
Let Zeus restore the sceptre to the birds,
And all make friends. If ye accept this offer,
I ask the envoys in to share our banquet.

HE. I'm altogether satisfied, and vote—

POS. (interrupting)

What, wretch ? A fool and glutton, that's what you are !
What ! would you rob your father of his kingdom ?

PEI. Aye, say you so ? Why, ye'll be mightier far,
Ye Gods above, if Birds bear rule below.
Now men go skulking underneath the clouds,
And swear false oaths, and call the Gods to witness.
But when ye've got the Birds for your allies,
If a man swear by the Raven and by Zeus,
The Raven will come by, and unawares
Fly up, and swoop, and peck the perjurer's eye out.

POS. Now by Poseidon there's some sense in that.

HE. And so say I.

PEI. (to Trib.) And you ?

THE BIRDS, 1639-1668

What, are we going to fight about one woman ?

POS. What shall we do ?

HE. Do ? Come to terms at once.

POS. You oaf, he's gulling you, and you can't see it.

Well, it's yourself you are ruining. If Zeus
Restore the kingdom to the Birds, and die,
You'll be a pauper. You are the one to get Whatever money Zeus may leave behind him.

PEI. O ! O ! the way he's trying to cozen you !

Hist, step aside, I want to whisper something.
Your uncle's fooling you, poor dupe. By law
No shred of all your father's money falls
To you. Why, you're a bastard,^a you're not heir.

HE. Eh ! What ? A bastard ? I ?

PEI. Of course you are.

Your mother was an alien. Bless the fool,
How did you think Athene could be " Heiress,"
(Being a girl), if she had lawful brethren ?

HE. Well, but suppose my father leaves me all
As bastard's heritage ?

PEI. The law won't let him.

Poseidon here, who now excites you on,
Will be the first to claim the money then,
As lawful brother, and your father's heir.
Why here, I'll read you Solon's law about it.

" A bastard is to have no right of inheritance, if there be lawful children. And if there be no lawful children, the goods are to fall to the next of kin." ^b

HE. What ! none of all my father's goods to fall
To me ?

^a Or " half-breed," his mother being a mortal ; for in Attic law, anyone was νόθος whose mother was not a genuine Athenian.

^b Probably the words of Solon's law : the quotation is prose.

THE FROGS

INTRODUCTION

THE Frogs was produced at the Lenaeon festival of 405 B.C., about six months after the great naval victory of Arginusae ; about four after the death of Euripides ; and about two after that of Sophocles. It carried off the prize, the Muses of Phrynichus being second and the Cleophon of Plato third, and "at once took its position, which has never since been challenged, among the masterpieces of the Athenian drama."^a But it also achieved "the apparently unique distinction of being acted a second time, and at this second representation the poet was crowned, not with the usual wreath of Bacchic ivy, but with a wreath made from Athene's sacred olive, an honour reserved for citizens who were deemed to have rendered important services to Athene's city."^b

This exceptional honour was accorded "not for its wit and humour, nor yet for what to modern readers constitutes its pre-eminent attraction, the literary contest between Aeschylus and Euripides," but "for the lofty strain of patriotism which breathed through all its political allusions, and was especially felt in the advice tendered, obviously with some misgiving as to the spirit in which the audience would receive it, in the epirrhema to the parabasis (686-705)."^a There the poet appeals to the Athenian people to remember how they had recently enfranchized the slaves who had fought "one battle" (693) at Arginusae and not to leave men, who through "one mishap" (699) had been implicated in the oligarchical schemes of the Four Hundred five or six years before, with no civic rights whatever, and "we are told on the authority of Dicaearchus, a writer of the very greatest weight on such matters, that it was this very appeal which won the admiration of the public, and obtained for the play the honour of a second representation."^b

The Chorus are "the Blessed Mystics, those who had on earth been initiated into the Eleusinian mysteries, and had led a holy and virtuous life in accordance with the doctrines therein inculcated."^c They do not enter at once, but are first heard behind the scenes "chanting the melodious songs of the dead frogs, from whom the comedy derives its name." When they do enter later they "come in singing a series of hymns and songs, which are not mere unconnected lyrics, but are a continuous presentation of the earlier stages of their annual procession to Eleusis."

 HE. I vow I can't help laughing, I can't help it.

 A club and buskin ! What's it all about ?
 Where were you going ?

 DI. And sank
 More than a dozen of the enemy's ships.

 DI. There as, on deck, I'm reading to myself
 The Andromeda,^d a sudden pang of longing Shoots through my heart, you can't conceive how keenly.
 HE. How big a pang ?
 DI. A small one, Molon's^e size.
 HE. Caused by a woman ?
 DI. No.
 HE. A boy ?
 DI. No, no.
 HE. A man ?

And entertained you when you went below
To bring back Cerberus, in case I need them.

Roads, resting-places, stews, refreshment-rooms,
Towns, lodgings, hostesses, with whom were found

Which is the quickest way to get to Hades ?
I want one not too warm, nor yet too cold.

There's one by rope and bench : you launch away
And—hang yourself.

DI. No thank you : that's too stifling.

 We children of the fountain and the lake
 Let us wake
 Our full choir-shout, as the flutes are ringing out,
 Our symphony of clear-voiced song.
 The song we used to love in the Marshland^c up above,
 In praise of Dionysus to produce,
 Of Nysaeon Dionysus, son of Zeus,
 When the revel-tipsy throng, all crapulous and gay.
 To our precinct reeled along on the holy Pitcher day,
 Brekekekex, ko-ax, ko-ax.
 DI. O, dear ! O, dear ! now I declare the tunes which, when alive, they had sung in the Marshland (cf. 216 n.) of Athens. For authorities to show that Aristophanes reproduces the exact sound made by frogs in Greece see R.

^c The district called Aluvai was adjacent to the Acropolis and close to the Theatre. It contained the temple of Dionysus, where Thucydides (ii. 15) tells us the older Dionysia were celebrated on the twelfth day of Anthesterion. The Χίτροι was the name given later to the third day of this festival ; cf. A. 1076.

 When in sunny and glorious days
 Through the rushes and marsh-flags springing
 On we swept, in the joy of singing
 Myriad-diving roundelays.
 Or when fleeing the storm, we went Down to the depths, and our choral song
 Wildly raised to a loud and long
 Bubble-bursting accompaniment.

THE FROGS, 377-402

(The processional hymn to Persephone.)

March, chanting loud your lays,
Your hearts and voices raising,
The Saviour goddess praising
 Who vows she'll still
Our city save to endless days,
Whate'er Thorycion's will.

Break off the measure, and change the time ;
 and now with chanting and hymns adorn Demeter, goddess mighty and high,
 the harvest-queen, the giver of corn.

(The processional hymn to Demeter.)

O Lady, over our rites presiding,
Preserve and succour thy choral throng,
And grant us all, in thy help confiding,
To dance and revel the whole day long ;
AND MUCH in earnest, and much in jest,
Worthy thy feast, may we speak therein.
And when we have bantered and laughed our best,
The victor's wreath be it ours to win.

Call we now the youthful god,
 call him hither without delay,
Him who travels amongst his chorus,
 dancing along on the Sacred Way.

(The processional hymn to Iacchus.)

O, come with the joy of thy festival song,
O, come to the goddess, O, mix with our throng
Untired, though the journey be never so long.^a
O Lord of the frolic and dance,
Iacchus, beside me advance !

HO. Quick, run and call my patron^a Cleon here !

PLA. O, if you meet him, call Hyperbolus !

We'll pay you out to-day.

HO. O filthy throat,

O how I'd like to take a stone, and hack
Those grinders out with which you chawed my wares.

PLA. I'd like to pitch you in the deadman's pit.^b

HO. I'd like to get a reaping-hook and scoop
That gullet out with which you gorged my tripe.
But I'll to Cleon : he'll soon serve his writs ;
He'll twist it out of you to-day, he will.

DI. Perdition seize me, if I don't love Xanthias.

I won't be Heracles.

DI. O, don't say so,

Dear, darling Xanthias.

XA. Why, how can I,

A slave, a mortal, act Alcmena's son !

DI. Aye, aye, I know you are vexed, and I deserve it,
And if you pummel me, I won't complain.

But if I strip you of these togs again,
Perdition seize myself, my wife, my children,
And, most of all, that blear-eyed Archedemus.

THE FROGS, 614-639

I stole one hair's-worth from you, let me die !
And now I'll make you a right noble offer,
Arrest my lad : torture him as you will,^a
And if you find I'm guilty, take and kill me.

AE. Torture him, how ?

XA. In any mode you please.

Pile bricks upon him : stuff his nose with acid :
Flay, rack him, hoist him ; flog him with a scourge
Of prickly bristles : only not with this,
A soft-leaved onion, or a tender leek.

AE. A fair proposal. If I strike too hard
And maim the boy, I'll make you compensation.

XA. I shan't require it. Take him out and flog him.

AE. Nay, but I'll do it here before your eyes.
Now then, put down the traps, and mind you speak
The truth, young fellow.

DI. (in agony) Man ! don't torture ME !
I am a god. You'll blame yourself hereafter
If you touch ME.

AE. Hillo ! What's that you are saying ?

DI. I say I'm Bacchus, son of Zeus, a god,
And he's the slave.

AE. You hear him ?

XA. Hear him ? Yes.

All the more reason you should flog him well.
For if he is a god, he won't perceive it.

DI. Well, but you say that you're a god yourself.
So why not you be flogged as well as I ?

XA. A fair proposal. And be this the test,
Whichever of us two you first behold
Flinching or crying out—he's not the god.

On the lips of that foreigner base, of Athens the bane and disgrace, lines of the Strophe are clearly a quotation or a parody of some tragic poet.

^c For this demagogue see 1532. He is here chiefly satirized on account of the strain of Thracian blood which he derived from his mother, and so is ἀμφίγλωστος, "a chatterer in two dialects."

^a The occupation of Deceleia had suspended the working of the silver mines at Laureium, so that the old silver coinage (τὰρχαῖον νόμισμα) had to be replaced, and in 407-6 B.C. certain gold statues of Victory were turned into coin (τὸ καινὸν χρυσίον). But in the archonship of Callias 406-5 B.C. copper (or to speak strictly, bronze) coins were, for the first time, issued from the Athenian mint.

XA. Great Kin-god Zeus ^c ! And what of overhearing
 Your master's secrets ?

AE. What ? I'm mad with joy.

XA. And blabbing them abroad ?

acts like a person in authority, now converses with Xanthias as if he were a fellow-slave.

^c Zeus ὁμόγυιος was invoked by members of the same family or kindred, and is therefore appealed to here by Xanthias who feels himself akin to Aeacus in rascality. In 756 he makes the title still more definite, for ὁμομαστιγίας = "patron of the rogue's fraternity" not "fellow-knave" (as in L. & S.).

THE FROGS, 752-776

Æ. O heaven and earth !

When I do that, I can't contain myself.

xa. Phoebus Apollo ! clap your hand in mine,
Kiss and be kissed : and prithee tell me this,
Tell me by Zeus, our rascaldom's own god,
What's all that noise within? What means this hubbub
And row ?

AE. That's Aeschylus and Euripides.

XA. Eh?

AE. Wonderful, wonderful things are going on.
The dead are rioting, taking different sides.

XA. Why, what's the matter?

AE. There's a custom here
With all the crafts, the good and noble crafts,
That the chief master of his art in each
Shall have his dinner in the assembly hall,^a
And sit by Pluto's side.

XA. I understand.

AE. Until another comes, more wise than he
In the same art : then must the first give way.

XA. And how has this disturbed our Aeschylus?

Æ. 'Twas he that occupied the tragic chair,
As, in his craft, the noblest.

XA. Who does now ?

AE. But when Euripides came down, he kept Flourishing off before the highwaymen,
 Thieves, burglars, parricides—these form our mob
 In Hades—till with listening to his twists
 And turns, and pleas and counterpleas, they went Mad on the man, and hailed him first and wisest :

THE FROGS, 777-801

Elate with this, he claimed the tragic chair
Where Aeschylus was seated.

XA. Wasn't he pelted ?

AE. Not he : the populace clamoured out to try
Which of the twain was wiser in his art.

XA. You mean the rascals ?

AE. Aye, as high as heaven !

XA. But were there none to side with Aeschylus ?

AE. Scanty and sparse the good, (regards the audience) the same as here.

XA. And what does Pluto now propose to do ?

AE. He means to hold a tournament, and bring Their tragedies to the proof.

XA. But Sophocles,
How came not he to claim the tragic chair ?

AE. Claim it ? Not he ! When he came down, he kissed
With reverence Aeschylus, and clasped his hand,
And yielded willingly the chair to him.
But now he's going, says Cleidemides,^a
To sit third-man : and then if Aeschylus win,
He'll stay content : if not, for his art's sake,
He'll fight to the death against Euripides.

XA. Will it come off ?

AE. O yes, by Zeus, directly.

And then, I hear, will wonderful things be done,
The art poetic will be weighed in scales.

XA. What ! weigh out tragedy, like butcher's meat ?

AE. Levels they'll bring, and measuring-tapes for words,
And moulded oblongs,^b

XA. Is it bricks they are making ?

AE. Wedges and compasses : for Euripides mostly heard about Sophocles when he withdrew into retirement in his old age.

the shape of bricks" : R.

XA. Aeschylus chafes at this, I fancy.

AE. Well,
He lowered his brows, upglaring like a bull.^a

XA. And who's to be the judge ?

AE. There came the rub.
Skilled men were hard to find : for with the Athenians
Aeschylus, somehow, did not hit it off,
XA. Too many burglars, I expect, he thought.
AE. And all the rest, he said, were trash and nonsense
To judge poetic wits. So then at last
They chose your lord, an expert in the art.
But we go in : for when our lords are bent
On urgent business, that means blows for us.

CHOR. O surely with terrible wrath will the thunder-voiced monarch be filled,
When he sees his opponent beside him,
the tonguester, the artifice-skilled,
Stand, whetting his tusks for the fight !

O surely, his eyes rolling-fell
Will with terrible madness be fraught !
O then will be charging of plume-waving words with their wild-floating mane,
And then will be whirling of splinters,
and phrases smoothed down with the plane,
When the man would the grand-stepping maxims,
the language gigantic, repel
Of the hero-creator of thought.

There will his shaggy-born crest
upbriestle for anger and woe,
Horribly frowning and growling.
his fury will launch at the foe

To judge the strife with high poetic skill.

Meanwhile (to the Chorus) invoke the Muses with a song.

CHOR. O Muses, the daughters divine of Zeus, the immaculate Nine,
Who gaze from your mansions serene on intellects subtle and keen,
When down to the tournament lists,
in bright-polished wit they descend,
With wrestling and turnings and twists
in the battle of words to contend,
O come and behold what the two antagonist poets can do,
Whose mouths are the swiftest to teach grand language and filings of speech :
For now of their wits is the sternest encounter commencing in earnest

DI. Ye two, put up your prayers before ye start.

AES. Demeter, mistress, nourisher of my soul,

O make me worthy of thy mystic rites !

DI. (to Eur.) Now put on incense, you.

EU. Excuse me, no ;

My vows are paid to other gods than these.

DI. What, a new coinage of your own?

EU. Precisely.

DI. Pray then to them, those private gods of yours.

EU. Ether, my pasture, volubly-rolling tongue,

Intelligent wit and critic nostrils keen,

O well and neatly may I trounce his plays !

CHOR. We also are yearning from these to be learning
Some stately measure, some majestic grand Movement telling of conflicts nigh.
Now for battle arrayed they stand,

Tongues embittered, and anger high.
 Each has got a venturesome will,
 Each an eager and nimble mind ;
 One will wield, with artistic skill,
 Clearcut phrases, and wit refined ;
 Then the other, with words defiant,
 Stern and strong, like an angry giant
 Laying on with uprooted trees,
 Soon will scatter a world of these Superscholastic subtleties.

DI. Now then, commence your arguments, and mind you both display
 True wit, not metaphors, nor things which any fool could say.

EU. As for myself, good people all,
 I'll tell you by-and-by
 My own poetic worth and claims ;
 but first of all I'll try
 To show how this portentous quack beguiled the silly fools
 Whose tastes were nurtured, ere he came,
 in Phrynichus's schools.
 He'd bring some single mourner on, seated and veiled, 'twould be Achilles, say, or Niobe^a
 —the face you could not see—
 An empty show of tragic woe, who uttered not one thing.

DI. 'Tis true.

EU. Then in the Chorus came,
 and rattled off a string
 Of four continuous lyric odes :
 the mourner never stirred.

^a περιπατεῖν (= "to expatiate upon") is R.'s conjecture for περίπατος of mss. He adds: "Dionysus is referring generally to the antidemocratical tendencies of the school to which Euripides belonged. His pupils mentioned in 967, Theramenes and Cleitophon, were both active promoters of the establishment of the Four Hundred."

With bells upon their horses' heads, in terrible array,
the audience to dismay.

^a An old-fashioned politician of some note at the time. Meg-aenetus is unknown. Manes is the name of the little statuette with which the game of κότταβος was played (cf. P. 1244), and possibly Megaenetus was fond of the game.

^b The epithet refers to the legendary robber Sinis, who tied his victims to two pine-trees which he had bound together, and which, when let go, tore them limb from limb. Both epithets parody Aeschylean grandeur of description.

THE FROGS, 964-986

Look at his pupils, look at mine :

and there the contrast view.

Uncouth Megaenetus is his,

and rough Phormisius ^a too ;

Great long-beard-lance-and-trumpet-men,

flesh-tearers with the pipe^o :

But natty smart Theramenes, and Cleitophon are mine.

DR. Theramenes? a clever man and wonderfully sly :

Immerse him in a flood of ills,

he'll soon be high and dry,

"A Kian with a kappa, sir,

not Chian with a chi." c

EU. I taught them all these knowing ways

By chopping logic in my plays,

And making all my speakers try

To reason out the How and Why.

So now the people trace the springs,

The sources and the roots of things,

And manage all their households too

Far better than they used to do,

Scanning and searching What's amiss?

And, Why was that? And, How is this?

DR. Ay, truly, never now a man

Comes home, but he begins to scan ;

And to his household loudly cries,

Why, where's my pitcher? What's the matter?

'Tis dead and gone my last year's platter.

Who gnawed these olives? Bless the sprat,

Who nibbled off the head of that?

^c i.e. if the party he belonged to came to grief he would at once, like an adroit politician, find a new label for himself, which looked like the old one but might mean anything else he chose.

To be better townsmen and worthier men.

Pray what is the meed you deserve to get?

DI. Nay, ask not him. He deserves to die.

AES. For just consider what style of men

Heroical souls, who never would blench from a townsman's duties in peace or war ;
Not idle loafers, or low buffoons, or rascally scamps such as now they are.

But men who were breathing spears and helms,
 and the snow-white plume in its crested pride,
 The greave, and the dart, and the warrior's heart
 in its sevenfold casing of tough bull-hide.

DR. He'll stun me, I know, with his armoury-work ;
this business is going from bad to worse.

EU. And how did you manage to make them so grand, exalted, and brave with your wonderful verse?

DR. Come, Aeschylus, answer, and don't stand mute in your self-willed pride and arrogant spleen.

AES. A drama I wrote with the War-god filled.

DI. Its name?

AES. 'Tis the Seven against Thebes that I mean.
Which whoso beheld, with eagerness swelled to rush to the battlefield there and then.

You have made the Thebans mightier men,
More eager by far for the business of war.

THE FROGS, 1025-1039

- AES. Ah, ye might have practised the same yourselves, but ye turned to other pursuits instead.
 Then next the Persians I wrote, in praise of the noblest deed that the world can show,
 And each man longed for the victor's wreath,
 to fight and to vanquish his country's foe.
- DI. I was pleased, I own, when I heard their moan^a for old Darius, their great king, dead ;
 When they smote together their hands, like this,
 and Evir alake the Chorus said.
- AES. Aye, such are the poet's appropriate works :
 and just consider how all along
 From the very first they have wrought you good,
 the noble bards, the masters of song.
 First, Orpheus taught you religious rites, and from bloody murder to stay your hands :
 Musaeus healing and oracle lore ;
 and Hesiod all the culture of lands,
 The time to gather, the time to plough.
 And gat not Homer his glory divine
 By singing of valour, and honour, and right, and the sheen of the battle-extended line,
 The ranging of troops and the arming of men ?
- DI. O ay, but he didn't teach that, I opine,
 To Pantacles ; when he was leading the show^b
 I couldn't imagine what he was at,
 He had fastened his helm on the top of his head,
 he was trying to fasten his plume upon that.
- AES. But others, many and brave, he taught, of whom was Lamachus,^c hero true ;

^b ἔπεμπεν=ἐπόμπειν : Schol. Pantacles had forgotten to fasten the plume on his helmet before starting.

^c One of the three generals in the Sicilian expedition ; scoffed at in the Acharnians, but here referred to as a typical soldier.

^a The love of Phaedra for her stepson Hippolytus is the subject of the play of that name; and the adulterous love of Sthenoboea for Bellerophon was doubtless told in the lost Sthenoboea.

THE FROGS, 1040-1054

And thence my spirit the impress took,
and many a lion-heart chief I drew,
Patrocluses, Teucers, illustrious names ;
for I fain the citizen-folk would spur
To stretch themselves to their measure and height, whenever the trumpet of war they hear.
But Phaedras and Sthenoboeas ^a? No!
no harlotry business deformed my plays.
And none can say that ever I drew a love-sick woman in all my days.

eu. For you no lot or portion had got in Queen Aphrodite.

AES. Thank Heaven for that.

But ever on you and yours, my friend,
the mighty goddess mightily sat ;
Yourself she cast to the ground at last.

DI. O ay, that came uncommonly pat.
You showed how cuckolds are made, and lo,
you were struck yourself by the very same fate.^b

EU. But say, you cross-grained censor of mine, how my Stheneboeas could harm the state.

AES. Full many a noble dame, the wife of a noble citizen, hemlock took,
And died, unable the shame and sin of your Bellerophon-scenes to brook.

EU. Was then, I wonder, the tale I told of Phaedra's passionate love untrue?

AES. Not so : but tales of incestuous vice the sacred poet should hide from view,
Nor ever exhibit and blazon forth on the public stage to the public ken.

THE FROGS, 1055-1069

For boys a teacher at school is found,
but we, the poets, are teachers of men.

We are BOUND things honest and pure to speak.

EU. And to speak great Lycabettuses,^a pray,
And massive blocks of Parnassian rocks,
is that things honest and pure to say?
In human fashion we ought to speak.

AES. Alas, poor witling, and can't you see
That for mighty thoughts and heroic aims,
the words themselves must appropriate be?
And grander belike on the ear should strike
the speech of heroes and godlike powers,
Since even the robes that invest their limbs are statelier, grander robes than ours.
Such was my plan : but when you began,
you spoilt and degraded it all.

EU. How so?

AES. Your kings in tatters and rags you dressed, and brought them on, a beggarly show,
To move, forsooth, our pity and ruth.

EU. And what was the harm, I should like to know.

AES. No more will a wealthy citizen now equip for the state a galley of war^b
He wraps his limbs in tatters and rags, and whines he is poor, too poor by far.

DI. But under his rags he is wearing a vest,
as woolly and soft as a man could wish.
Let him gull the state, and he's off to the mart;
an eager, extravagant buyer of fish.^c

AES. Moreover to prate, to harangue, to debate, is now the ambition of all in the state.

^b To fit out a trireme provided by the state was one of the "public services" (λειτουργίαι) required of wealthy citizens.

^c Lit. "he pops up in the fish-market"; cf. W. 789.

Your lessons have brought our youngsters, and taught our sailors to challenge, discuss, and refute
The orders they get from their captains and yet, when I was alive, I protest that the knaves Knew nothing at all, save for rations to call, and to sing “ Rhyppapae ”^a as they pulled through the waves.

DI. And bedad to let fly from their sterns in the eye of the fellow who tugged at the undermost oar,
 And a jolly young messmate with filth to besmirk,
 and to land for a filching adventure ashore ;
 But now they harangue, and dispute, and won't row
 And idly and aimlessly float to and fro.

AES. Of what ills is he not the creator and cause ?
Consider the scandalous scenes that he draws,
His bawds, and his panders, his women who give Give birth in the sacredest shrine,
Whilst others with brothers are wedded and bedded,
And others opine
That " not to be living " is truly " to live." ^b
And therefore our city is swarming to-day
With clerks and with demagogue-monkeys, who play
Their jakanape tricks at all times, in all places,
Deluding the people of Athens ; but none
Has training enough in athletics to run
With the torch in his hand at the races. ^c

DI. By the Powers, you are right ! At the Panathenaea
I laughed till I felt like a potsherd to see a Pale, paunchy young gentleman pounding along,
With his head butting forward, the last of the throng, started from the outer Cerameicus, passed through the Thriasian gates and on to the Acropolis.

THE FROGS, 1093-1116

In the direst of straits ; and behold at the gates,
The Cceramites^a flapped him, and smacked him, and slapped him,
In the ribs, and the loin, and the flank, and the groin,
And still, as they spanked him, he puffed and he panted,
Till at one mighty cuff, he discharged such a puff
That he blew out his torch and levanted.

CHOR. Dread the battle, and stout the combat, mighty and manifold looms the war.
Hard to decide is the fight they're waging,
One like a stormy tempest raging,
One alert in the rally and skirmish, clever to parry and foin and spar.
Nay but don't be content to sit Always in one position only :
many the fields for your keen-edged wit.
On then, wrangle in every way,
Argue, battle, be flayed and flay,
Old and new from your stores display,
Yea, and strive with venturesome daring something subtle and neat to say.

Fear ye this, that to-day's spectators lack the grace of artistic lore,
Lack the knowledge they need for taking
All the points ye will soon be making ?
Fear it not : the alarm is groundless :
that, be sure, is the case no more.
All have fought the campaign ere this :
Each a book of the words is holding ;
never a single point they'll miss.^b
Bright their natures, and now, I ween,
Newly whetted, and sharp, and keen.

^a E. gives the last three words of 1138 a meaning which they can bear, "that dost survey my father's realm." He then "asks why does Orestes at this solemn moment address Hermes as the surveyor of his father's realm. Does he mean that the god of craft was an onlooker, when Clytaemnestra by craft destroyed her husband?" : R.

THE FROGS, 1139-1161

EU. And this beside his murdered father's grave
Orestes speaks ?

AES. I say not otherwise.

EU. Then does he mean that when his father fell
By craft and violence at a woman's hand,
The god of craft was witnessing the deed ? ^a

AES. It was not he ^b : it was the Helper Hermes
He called the grave : and this he showed by adding
It was his sire's prerogative he held.

EU. Why this is worse than all. If from his father
He held this office grave, why then—^c

DI. How twice ?

EU. Why, just consider : I'll explain.

" I come," says he ; and " I return," says he :
It's the same thing, to " come " and to " return."

DI. Aye, just as if you said, " Good fellow, lend me
A kneading trough : likewise, a trough to knead in."

They're not the same, the words are right enough.

 To any land, with no especial chance.
 A home-bound exile both " returns " and " comes."

EU. Lord of Phthia, Achilles, why hearing the voice of the hero-dividing^a

Hah ! smiting ! approachest thou not to the rescue ?
We, by the lake who abide, are adoring our ancestor Hermes.

Hah ! smiting ! approachest thou not to the rescue ?

DI. O Aeschylus, twice art thou smitten !^b

EU. Harken to me, great king ; yea, harken Atreides, thou noblest of all the Achaeans.

Hah ! smiting ! approachest thou not to the rescue ?

DI. Thrice, Aeschylus, thrice art thou smitten !

EU. Hush ! the bee-wardens are here : they will quickly the Temple of Artemis open.

Hah ! smiting ! approachest thou not to the rescue ?
I will expound (for I know it) the omen the chieftains encountered.

Hah ! smiting ! approachest thou not to the rescue ?

DI. O Zeus and King, the terrible lot of smittings !

I'll to the bath : I'm very sure my kidneys
Are quite inflamed and swoln with all these smittings.

EU. Wait till you've heard another batch of lays Culled from his lyre-accompanied melodies.

DI. Go on then, go : but no more smittings, please.^c

EU. How the twin-throned powers of Achaea, the lords of the mighty Hellenes.^d

O phlattothrattophlattothrat !

him one with the lyre (represented by φλαττόθρατ), and a slightly different variety of hexameter endings (see R.'s Introduction).

^a Line 1285 is made up from Aesch. Ag. 108, 109, and 1289 from Ag. 111, 112.

πρὸς ἥνπερ ἐπιτήδεια τάδ' ἔστ' ἄδειν μέλη.

ΔΙ. αὐτὴ ποθ' ἡ Μοῦσ' οὐκ ἐλεσβίαζεν, οὔ.

^a Clearly a compliment to the old Μαραθωνομάχης, whose "strains" might perhaps suggest the "cable-twister's" art, but were certainly heroic. The Scholiast curiously says that φλατ suggests φλέως a reed which grew in the marshes of Marathon, and, like hemp, may have been used to make cables.

Sendeth the Sphinx, the unchancy, the chieftainness bloodhound.

O phlattrothrattophlattrothrat !
Launcheth fierce with brand and hand the avengers
the terrible eagle.

O phlattrothrattophlattrothrat !
So for the swift-winged hounds of the air he provided a bosty.

O phlattrothrattophlattrothrat !
The throng down-bearing on Aias.

O phlattrothrattophlattrothrat !

DI. Whence comes that phlattrothrat? From Marathon,^a or Where picked you up these cable-twister's strains?

AES. From noblest source for noblest ends^b I brought them,
Unwilling in the Muses' holy field
The self-same flowers as Phrynichus to cull.
But he from all things rotten draws his lays,^c
From Carian flutings, catches of Meletus,^d
Dance-music, dirges. You shall hear directly.
Bring me the lyre. Yet wherefore need a lyre
For songs like these? Where's she that bangs and jangles

Her castanets? Euripides' Muse,
Present yourself: ^e fit goddess for fit verse.

DI. The Muse herself can't be a wanton? No!

^b i.e. from the epic of Homer to the Athenian drama.

^c μελοφορεῖ πορνωδικῶν is R.'s suggestion for the impossible μέν φέρει πορνιδίων of mss.

^d A tragic poet, afterwards one of the accusers of Socrates, but who also seems to have written erotic σκόλια. The Καρίων αὐλήματα are probably of the same type.

^e "An actor enters, personating a flaunting harlot, and clashing oyster-shells together. Aeschylus hails him as the Muse of Euripides": R.

AES. Halcyons, who by the ever-rippling^a
 Waves of the sea are babbling,
 Dewing your plumes with the drops that fall
 From wings in the salt spray dabbling.

Spiders, ever with twir-r-r-r-ling fingers
Weaving the warp and the woof,
Little, brittle, network, fretwork.
Under the coigns of the roof.

The minstrel shuttle's care.

Where in the front of the dark-prowed ships
Yarely the flute-loving dolphin skips.

Races here and oracles there.

And the joy of the young vines smiling,
And the tendril of grapes, care-beguiling.
O embrace me, my child, O embrace me.

AES. And this? ^c

DI. And that one too.

AES. (to Eur.) You, such stuff who compile,

Dare my songs to upbraid ;
You, whose songs in the style
Of Cyrene's embraces are made.^d

So much for them : but still I'd like to show

i.e. περιβαλλ', an anapaestic foot, whereas "the base of a glyconic line should be a spondee, and, in his indignation, Aeschylus advances his own foot": R.

In this line Aeschylus plays up to D.'s joke, and points to his other real foot.

^d i.e. are full of as many tricks as the courtesan Cyrene practises.

Sent from the world unseen

With baleful omens rife ;

A thing of lifeless life,

A child of sable night,

A ghastly curdling sight,

In black funereal veils,

With murder, murder in its eyes,

And great enormous nails ?

Light ye the lanterns, my maidens,

and dipping your jugs in the stream,

Draw me the dew of the water, and heat it to boiling and steam ;

So will I wash me away the ill effects of my dream.

God of the sea !

My dream's come true.^b

Ho, lodgers, ho,

Glyce has vanished, carrying off my cock,

My cock that crew !

O Mania,^c help ! O Oreads of the rock

Pursue ! pursue !

For I, poor girl, was working within,

Holding my distaff heavy and full,

Twir-r-r-r-r-ling my hand as the threads I spin,

Weaving an excellent bobbin of wool ;

Thinking ‘ To-morrow I’ll go to the fair, to throw the grace and dignity of tragic diction. A poor spinning-girl has a bad dream, and when she wakes finds (1342) that Glyce has absconded with her cock ” : R.

In the dusk of the morn, and be selling it there.'
But he to the blue upflew, upflew,
On the lightliest tips of his wings outspread :
To me he bequeathed but woe, but woe,^a
And tears, sad tears, from my eyes o'erflow,
Which I, the bereaved, must shed, must shed.
O children of Ida, sons of Crete,
Grasping your bows to the rescue come ;
Twinkle about on your restless feet,
Stand in a circle around her home.
O Artemis, thou maid divine,
Dictynna, huntress, fair to see,
O bring that keen-nosed pack of thine,
And hunt through all the house with me.
O Hecate, with flameful brands,^b
O Zeus's daughter, arm thine hands,
Those swiftest hands, both right and left ;
Thy rays on Glyce's cottage throw
That I serenely there may go,
And search by moonlight for the theft."

DI. Enough of both your odes.

AES. Enough for me.

Now would I bring the fellow to the scales.
That, that alone, shall test our poetry now,
And prove whose words are weightiest, his or mine.

DI. Then both come hither, since I needs must weigh
The art poetic like a pound of cheese.^c

O the wild, extravagant, new,
Wonderful things they are going to do !

THE FROGS, 1397-1420

Think of some heavier-weighted line of yours,
To drag your scale down : something strong and big.

I don't desire to be at odds with either :

PLUTO. Then you'll effect nothing for which you came ?

DI. And how, if I decide ?

PL. Then take the winner ;
So will your journey not be made in vain.

DI. Heaven bless your Highness ! Listen, I came down
After a poet.

EU. To what end ?

DI. That so
The city, saved, may keep her choral games.^d

And trusted things, mistrusted.

DI. How ! I don't

^c These lines are probably suggested by the famous parable of the lion's whelp, Ag. 717-32. Line 1431 may have crept in from the earlier version of the play ; so too with 1437-41, and 1452-3.

^d A gawky, misshapen Athenian who looked like an ostrich (B. 877). Here the light and airy Cinesias (B. 1372-8) is to furnish him with wings.

^a A rival of Odysseus in craft; said to have invented dice and many other things. E. gave his name to one of his plays.

Quite comprehend. Be clear, and not so clever.

EU. If we mistrust those citizens of ours
Whom now we trust, and those employ whom now
We don't employ, the city will be saved.
If on our present tack we fail, we surely Shall find salvation in the opposite course.

DI. Good, O Palamedes ^a ! Good, you genius you.

[Is this your cleverness or Cephisophon's ?

EU. This is my own : the cruel-plan was his.]

DI. (to Aes.) Now, you.

AES. But tell me whom the city uses
The good and useful ?

DI. What are you dreaming of ?
She hates and loathes them.

AES. Does she love the bad ?

DI. Not love them, no : she uses them perforce.

AES. How can one save a city such as this,
Whom neither frieze nor woollen tunic suits ? ^b

DI. O, if to earth you rise, find out some way.

AES. There will I speak : I cannot answer here.

DI. Nay, nay ; send up your guerdon from below.

AES. When they shall count the enemy's soil their own,
And theirs the enemy's : when they know that ships
Are their true wealth, their so-called wealth delusion. ^c

DI. Aye, but the justices suck that down, you know. ^d

PL. Now then, decide.

 All things noble and true.

 Fine-drawn quibbles to seek,
 Fine-set phrases to speak,
 Is but the part of a fool !
